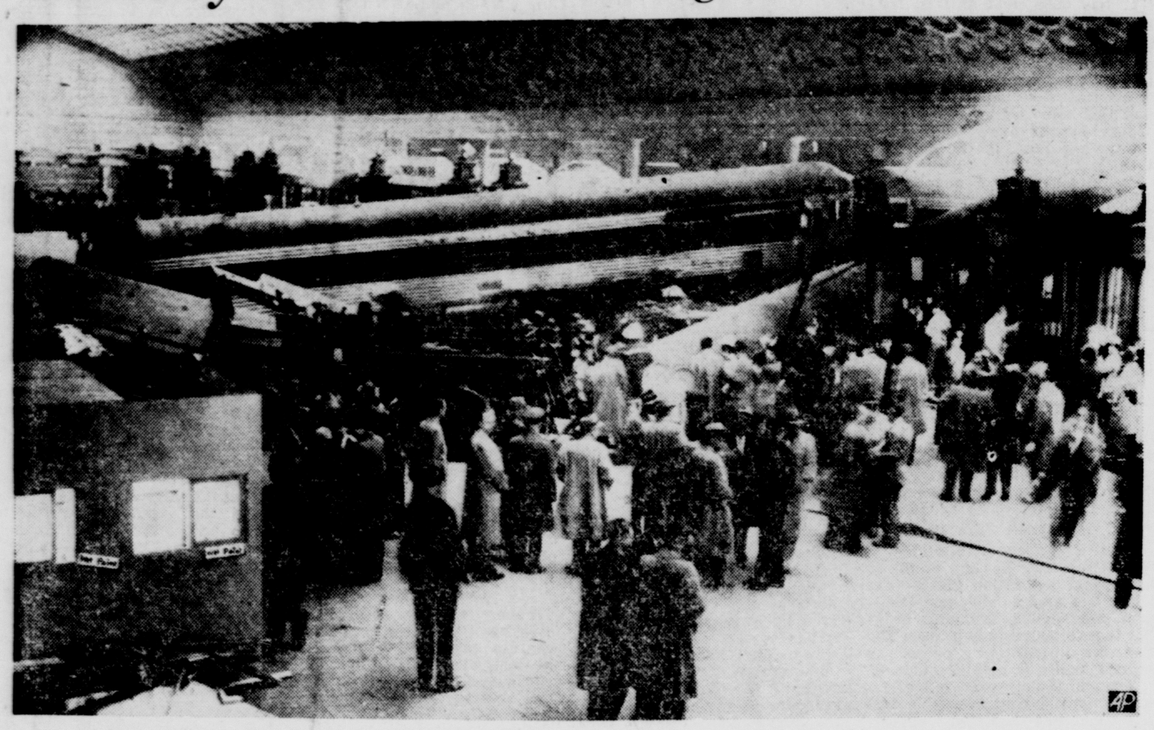
Runaway Train Wrecks Washington's Union Station



The locomotive and passenger cars of the Pennsylvania Railroad's Federal Express from Boston rest amid the wreckage of Washington's Union Station concourse floor which collapsed from the weight of the train after it crashed its track-end barrier, Jan. 15.

The floor of Union Station concourse (top) is rugged, heavy and sturdily supported, but when this Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train failed to stop, Jan. 15, crashed through the gates and into the Washington building itself, the locomotive (center) and a car (left) fell through to the lower level. If the floor had held, the train would have piled through the waiting room. Workmen are shown cleaning up the rubble.

The concourse of Washington's Union Station, thoroughly chewed up by this crack Pennsylvania express train, is a heap of wreckage after the runaway crash. Out of control, the train smashed through the gates (rear), fell through concourse floor, stopping just short of the waiting room. The station master's office (upper right) was demolished as was the big news stand. (AP Wirephotos)

Wreckage Probed At Washington; 51 Persons Treated

Seven Are Seriously Hurt in Mishap — Salvage Crews Replace 3 Coaches

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—Salvage men and investigators today plumbed the quiet wreckage of the crack express train which hurtled, wild and brakeless, into Washington's Union Station yesterday

Incredibly, there were no deaths in the grinding, steaming impact just three blocks from the Capitol, but hospitals reported treating 51 persons, many released shortly. Seven were in serious condtion.

The train, the Pennsylvania Railroad's Federal Express from Boston, smashed through steel-and-concrete barriers and into the depot's giant concourse. The engine and one coach plunged through the floor to the basement.

Three Coaches Replaced

The Pennsylvania Railroad said round-the-clock salvage operations already have put three of the six coaches involved back on the tracks. It said floor braces will be installed today so workmen can get at the other cars and the locomotive, which will be dismantled.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, in a statement issued in New York said it had no explanation for the failure of the 150-ton electric locomotive's air brakes.

Engineer, Crew praised

But it credited engineer Henry W. Brower, 66, and his crew with quick action that averted a major catastrophe. It said Brower's continued blasting of the engine's horn enabled station officials to clear the concourse of people. The crew, it said, lessened injuries among the train's estimated 400 passengers by warnings to clear the aisles and keep seated.

The time helped, too. The express was due at 8:30 a. m., when crowds are not as heavy at the depot as later on.

There was no damage estimate.

Soldier Is Freed

Ft. Meade, Md., Jan. 16 (AP)—Warren G. McConnell, 21-year-old New Jersey soldier, was freed yesterday on a charge of going to sleep at his post in Korea. An earler court martial found him guilty and sentenced him to 10 years at hard labor. However, that verdict was reversed by a military court of appeals on a technicality and the army pressed the case a second time. The case against Private First Class McConnell fell through yesterday when two buddies with him on duty the night of Nov. 14, 1951, testified time and again they couldn't remember just what happened.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—The position of the treasury Jan. 14: Net budget receipts $154,346,527.98. Budget expenditures $132,559,785.49. Cash balance $4,754,375,645.46. Adjourns to Feb. 16

The Public Service Commisson hearing on the New York Central Railroad's petition to close its station at Ulster Park will resume on Monday, Feb. 16. It was incorrectly stated in the Freeman's account of the first session of the hearing last Monday that it had been adjourned to Jan. 16.

Ex-Soldiers Are Held in U.S. Prison

Verber, Ponger Come to U. S. in Shackles, Are Arrested Formally by FBI

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP) — Two former army intelligence servicemen accused of spying for Russia were brought into U. S. District Court briefly today, but their formal arraignment was put off until Monday.

Judge Alexander Holtzoff, delayed the arraignment of Otto Verber, 31, and Kurt Ponger, 39, to afford them opportunity to study the indictment against them and to consult counsel.

Verber and Ponger, arrested in Vienna where they were studying under the G. I. Bill of Rights, arrived here in shackles early today by plane. They were accused of being members of an international spy ring operating here and abroad under the direction of Yuri V. Novikov, second secretary of the Soviet embassy.

A third American, Walter Lauber, is in custody for questioning in Vienna.

To Question Others

U. S. sources in Vienna said others would be questioned. Lauber's Austrian-born wife, Cecile, 36, a naturalized American, was reported to have disappeared and was believed to have fled to the Russian-controlled zone of the city.

Verber and Ponger are both natives of Austria but naturalized U. S. citizens.

Ponger who appeared first before Judge Holtzoff, spoke in a heavily-accented voice. He bowed low as a half dozen marshal escorted him before the judge.

"Have you a lawyer," the judge asked.

"Not so far," Ponger replied.

"Are you going to hire a lawyer?"

Ponger replied that he wanted to consult two American lawyers he had known in Nurenburg, Germany.

The judge then asked whether Ponger had been given a copy of the indictment.

Ponger replied that he had not.

Oran H. Waterman, of the Justice Department, said he was prepared to supply the defendant with one. He did.

A new bond of $50,000 was fixed by Judge Holtzoff for Ponger, and a minute later he set a similar bond for Verber.

Waterman asked for his high bail "in view of the seriousness of this case and in the light of the government's experience in Communist cases."

Verber replied "not yet sir," when the judge asked him if he had obtained a lawyer.

Puts in Request

Asked whether he intended to hire counsel, Verber said he had "put in a request that a lawyer I intend to have be notified."

Verber and Ponger were led into the courtroom separately.

Verber and Ponger were accused as spies in a sealed indictment returned by a grand jury

Planes' Participation At Inaugural Dropped

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—Those 400 warplanes that were supposed to zoom over the inaugural parade next Tuesday won't be zooming after all. That part of the program was canceled yesterday.

No official reason was listed, but aircraft owners and pilots had complained that the flights would have been hazardous to the hundreds of thousands of persons who will be here for the inauguration of Dwight Eisenhower as President of the United States.

Secretary of the Air Force Finletter announced the cancellation. He said the decision was reached after consultation with the White House, the new administration and the other military services.

Roberts Will Get GOP High Post; Eisenhower Glad

General Will Say Goodbye to Columbia Groups, Leaves New York Sunday

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—The way was cleared officially at President-elect Eisenhower's headquarters today for election tomorrow of C. Wesley Roberts of Kansas as the new chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Former U. S. Senator Harry Darby, national committeeman, from Kansas, told a news conference that a five-member subcommittee had unanimously recommended election of Roberts to succeed Arthur E. Summerfield of Michigan.

Summerfield is resigning as Republican National Committee head to serve as postmaster general in Eisenhower's administration.

Darby said the subcommittee met early this morning, discussed only Roberts as a possibility for the chairmanship, voted unanimously to recommend him to the full committee, then reported to Eisenhower at his Commodore Hotel headquarters.

Eisenhower Is Happy

"He (Eisenhower) seemed to be very happy about it," Darby said.

The Kansas committeeman added, however, that Eisenhower "was very careful to make it understood that he feels selection of a chairman is a responsibility up to the National Committee."

The full GOP Committee will meet in Washington tomorrow. Election of Roberts now is a foregone conclusion.

Roberts served during the recent campaign as the National Committee's director of organization.

He formerly was Kansas State Republican chairman.

He also is a former newspaperman, having been in that business in Oskaloosa, Kan.

Publisher Sees Ike Greatest Since Lincoln, if Plan Held

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—Newspaper publisher Eugene C. Pulliam said today Dwight D. Eisenhower will be the greatest President since Abraham Lincoln "if he will just keep to his announced program regardless of political pressures."

Pulliam, publisher of the Indianapolis News, the Indianapolis Star, and the Phoenix Republic and Gazette, made the statement to newsmen after a conference with Eisenhower.

"General Eisenhower," Pulliam said, "has organized the ablest administrative team in American history. If he will just keep to his announced program regardless of political pressures, I predict he will be the greatest President since Lincoln."

In reply to questions, Pulliam said he had discussed with the President-elect the question of whether he plans to hold news conferences after he takes office next Tuesday. Pulliam added, however, that he preferred not to discuss the matter with reporters at this time.

The publisher said he reminded Eisenhower that the "Republican party did not elect him." He added:

"He's got to remember that he elected the party instead of the party electing him."

Pulliam said the people elected Eisenhower, "because they desperately wanted a change in the management of national affairs."

The people, he said, expect a change and they are entitled to it."

Cabinet Choices Seem Certain to Get Senate Vote; Some Get Rough Start

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee today recommended Senate confirmation of Martin P. Durkin as secretary of labor, without a word of protest from Sen. Taft (R.-Ohio), who had termed the selection "incredible."

Confirmation Expected

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower's cabinet choices today seemed assured of Senate approval next week despite a rough start by some of them in advance appearances before the lawmakers.

The AFL's Martin Durkin gets his baptism of congressional questioning today when the Senate Labor Committee looks into his qualifications to be secretary of labor.

Sen. Taft (R.-Ohio), who once called the choice of Durkin "incredible," has said he won't oppose the nominee, but some other Republicans indicated they want to know how Durkin stands on proposed repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Back before the Armed Services Committee in a closed hearing go four men chosen for high defense jobs: Charles M. Keyes, deputy secretary of defense; Robert T. Stevens, army secretary; Harold E. Talbott, air force secretary, and Robert B. Anderson, navy secretary.

The Armed Services group still was pondering Charles E. Wilson's disclosure that as secretary of defense he plans to hold on to 2½ million dollars worth of stock in General Motors, largest military contract recipient.

Wilson, who faced reported sharp questioning at a closed session of the group yesterday, was said by committee members to have testified he will get a $40,000 a year pension from General Motors and $635,000 in bonus payments, plus 1,800 additional shares of stock.

Committee reaction to Wilson's testimony was not all favorable but Chairman Saltonstall (R.-Mass.) predicted the group would

Dulles Is Opposed

HST Presents Final Speech As President

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—Retiring President Truman predicts Soviet Russia's aggressive schemes will collapse, sooner or later, under the growing weight of the free world's defenses.

And that, he forecast in a farewell to the nation from the White House last night, will lead to a new golden age — to an era of spreading world authority, and of peace "as far ahead as man can see."

Truman took over the nation's radio and television networks for a highly personal, sometimes emotional, review of his eight turbulent years in the White House and for a guess at how they might look in the light of history.

He pointed to dangers ahead—of a possible new world war that would dig the grave of western civilization and of its Communist enemy alike.

Disclaims Any Will

He disclaimed for this nation any will to provoke such a conflict by hurling ultimatums or by using terrible new weapons: "Starting an atomic war is totally unthinkable for rational men."

He called for complete public support of his successor, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Finally, putting eight years of controversy behind, the outgoing President ended his valedictory with a gentle:

"Good night—and God bless you all."

As he did so, Mrs. Truman and Margaret appeared on either side of him for the TV cameras.

Truman's last address from the chastely decorated oval office he will vacate Tuesday came only a few hours after he handed a firm piece of advice to his successor:

Free-for-all news conferences may be tough on you but don't give them up—the people are entitled to them.

Reads Formal Statement

It was at just such a come-what-may session with newsmen — his 324th and last — that the President read a formal statement upholding the right of newsmen to ask a Chief Executive, on behalf of the nation, all sorts of questions in open meeting.

It's important to a democracy, Truman said, that "every medium of communication between the citizens and their government, particularly the President, be kept open as far as possible."

He went on:

"This kind of news conference where reporters can ask any kind of question they can dream of—directly to the President of the United States — illustrates how strong and how vital our democracy is. There is no other country in the world where the chief of state submits to such unlimited questions."

Admits Blunders

Truman acknowledged with a grin that some of the questions he's been asked have made him wince. He accepted a reporter's suggestion that he's been known to make blunders at news conferences. Maybe, he said, succeeding Presidents can figure out improvements to the existing system but:

"I hope they will never cut the direct line of communication between themselves and the people."

To the 257 correspondents who squeezed into the conference room for this last chance to quiz him, Truman made it plain his statement was prompted by unconfirmed reports that Eisenhower might give up or at least modify the rough and tumble news conferences that have been a feature

Would Have Liberation With Peace

New Secretary's Ideas Differ From Diplomats Who Favor Russians' Containment

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—John Foster Dulles seems certain to encounter an argument within the State Department over his plan to try to loosen Russia's hold over its satellites by new political and propaganda strategy.

The secretary of state-designate for the Eisenhower Administration told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday he is convinced that a policy of expressing U. S. concern for peaceful liberation of the Iron Curtain lands can and must be adopted.

After hearing Dulles on this and other foreign policy views for two hours, the committee unanimously voted to recommend Senate confirmation of Dulles after the inauguration next Tuesday.

Working Agreement Visualized

Dulles said "no permanent reconciliation" with Russia is possible so long as the Kremlin seeks to extend its power over the free world. He thought that "limited agreements of a working character" may be possible.

"A policy which only contains Russia is bound to fail," Dulles said, referring to the basic containment theory of the outgoing Truman Administration. Soviet power, he continued, can be cut back "in a way which will not institute a general war or instigate an insurrection (in a satellite country) that would be crushed." He cited Yugoslavia as an example of a nation which has broken away from Kremlin domination.

Point of Agreement

It is on the point of what may be done short of risking new danger or trouble with allied countries that the incoming secretary seems destined to run into argument and objection in the State Department.

Present policy advisers, including career diplomats who will carry over into the new regime, have developed their thinking around the idea of preventing new expansion of Russian power rather than rolling it back. They have long contended that propaganda which focuses hopes on freedom in the satellites runs a serious risk of setting off futile uprising.

Thus its appears that Dulles will either have to overcome contrary arguments of various holdover advisors, or replace them with men who share his conviction that a cold war offensive is both practical and a reasonable risk.

Grunewald Pleads Innocent

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—Henry W. (The Dutchman) Grunewald pleaded innocent today to a 31-count indictment on charges of contempt of Congress. "Not guilty, sir," Grunewald said in a firm voice when he appeared before U. S. District Judge Alexander Holtzoff. The judge set Grunewald's trial for March 16. He was continued at liberty under $2,500 bail.

Sun Study Is Pushed

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP) — The government is pushing research to learn whether the sun's energy can be harnassed as a new source of food and industrial power.

The power objective would be to tap solar rays as a means of augmenting "our limited or diminishing resources" of uranium, the fuel of atomic energy, as well as conventional fuels like coal.

This was disclosed today in the second annual report of the National Science Foundation (NSF). The foundation said it is sponsoring sunlight research of "immediate urgency" on its own and it attempting to coodinate similar studies by other Federal agencies.

Two Aims Cited

A foundation official told a reporter the effort is directed at finding out whether it would be possible to:

1. Use sun rays to mass-produce food protein from microscopic plants, as distinguished from growing plants in the field.

2. Develop new kinds of solid, liquid and gaseous fuels containing solar energy—and capable of being burned just like coal and oil.

Police Board Asked for New Radio Equipment, Autos

Police Chief Raymond VanBuren suggested new police radio equipment and patrol cars in his annual report to the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday.

The report showed 199 persons injured in 143 traffic mishaps and four fatally injured in 1952 as compared to 198 injured in 136 accidents and none killed in 1951.

Arrests totalled 840 as compared to 857 in 1951, and of those made last year, 302 were for public intoxication, 111 for vehicle and traffic law violations, 108 for infractions of the city traffic code, and 128 for disorderly conduct.

Among other arrests were 42 for third degree assault, 34 for driving while intoxicated, 11 for second degree grand larceny, 23 for petit larceny, nine on gambling charges, two for third degree burglary, two for second degree assault, six for first degree grand larceny, one for first degree robbery, and four for juvenile delinquency.

The most arrests, 101, were made in May, and the lowest month was November with 40.

Radio equipment at police headquarters, the chief said, is six months old and has been on steadily since it was installed. That in the cars is also six months old.

"The old radios should be replaced by new equipment," the chief said, and he revealed that "at times the officer in headquarters cannot contact the cars by radio until the car is in a certain location. Last year 2,032 police calls were sent from headquarters to officers in the cars."

The chief said that motor equipment of the department consists

Heaviest Fog Muffles Harbor

Two Ferries Bump in Slip at Liberty Street

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—The thickest fog in years muffled New York harbor today, slowing shipping to rowboat pace.

In the second morning of heavy fog two Jersey Central Railroad ferryboats bumped each other at the Liberty street slip in lower Manhattan. No one was hurt and there was no damage.

Eleven persons were injured and hundreds shaken up yesterday when a Staten Island ferry collided with an 8,000-ton freighter near the Statue of Liberty.

Today the Lackawanna Railroad and the Erie Railroad suspended ferry service from Hoboken and Jersey City, N. J., to Manhattan. Thousands of commuters who normally ride the ferries created

After hearing Dulles on this and other foreign policy views for two hours, the committee unanimously voted to recommend Senate confirmation of Dulles after the inauguration next Tuesday.

Working Agreement Visualized

Dulles said "no permanent reconciliation" with Russia is possible so long as the Kremlin seeks to extend its power over the free world. He thought that "limited agreements of a working character" may be possible.

"A policy which only contains Russia is bound to fail," Dulles said, referring to the basic containment theory of the outgoing Truman Administration. Soviet power, he continued, can be cut back "in a way which will not institute a general war or instigate an insurrection (in a satellite country) that would be crushed." He cited Yugoslavia as an example of a nation which has broken away from Kremlin domination.

Point of Agreement

It is on the point of what may be done short of risking new danger or trouble with allied countries that the incoming secretary seems destined to run into argument and objection in the State Department.

Present policy advisers, including career diplomats who will carry over into the new regime, have developed their thinking around the idea of preventing new expansion of Russian power rather than rolling it back. They have long contended that propaganda which focuses hopes on freedom in the satellites runs a serious risk of setting off futile uprising.

Thus its appears that Dulles will either have to overcome contrary arguments of various holdover advisors, or replace them with men who share his conviction that a cold war offensive is both practical and a reasonable risk.

Grunewald Pleads Innocent

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—Henry W. (The Dutchman) Grunewald pleaded innocent today to a 31-count indictment on charges of contempt of Congress. "Not guilty, sir," Grunewald said in a firm voice when he appeared before U. S. District Judge Alexander Holtzoff. The judge set Grunewald's trial for March 16. He was continued at liberty under $2,500 bail.

Publisher Sees Ike Greatest Since Lincoln, if Plan Held

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—Newspaper publisher Eugene C. Pulliam said today Dwight D. Eisenhower will be the greatest President since Abraham Lincoln "if he will just keep to his announced program regardless of political pressures."

Pulliam, publisher of the Indianapolis News, the Indianapolis Star, and the Phoenix Republic and Gazette, made the statement to newsmen after a conference with Eisenhower.

"General Eisenhower," Pulliam said, "has organized the ablest administrative team in American history. If he will just keep to his announced program regardless of political pressures, I predict he will be the greatest President since Lincoln."

In reply to questions, Pulliam said he had discussed with the President-elect the question of whether he plans to hold news conferences after he takes office next Tuesday. Pulliam added, however, that he preferred not to discuss the matter with reporters at this time.

The publisher said he reminded Eisenhower that the "Republican party did not elect him." He added:

"He's got to remember that he elected the party instead of the party electing him."

Pulliam said the people elected Eisenhower, "because they desperately wanted a change in the management of national affairs."

The people, he said, expect a change and they are entitled to it."

Cabinet Choices Seem Certain to Get Senate Vote; Some Get Rough Start

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee today recommended Senate confirmation of Martin P. Durkin as secretary of labor, without a word of protest from Sen. Taft (R.-Ohio), who had termed the selection "incredible."

Confirmation Expected

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower's cabinet choices today seemed assured of Senate approval next week despite a rough start by some of them in advance appearances before the lawmakers.

The AFL's Martin Durkin gets his baptism of congressional questioning today when the Senate Labor Committee looks into his qualifications to be secretary of labor.

Sen. Taft (R.-Ohio), who once called the choice of Durkin "incredible," has said he won't oppose the nominee, but some other Republicans indicated they want to know how Durkin stands on proposed repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Back before the Armed Services Committee in a closed hearing go four men chosen for high defense jobs: Charles M. Keyes, deputy secretary of defense; Robert T. Stevens, army secretary; Harold E. Talbott, air force secretary, and Robert B. Anderson, navy secretary.

The Armed Services group still was pondering Charles E. Wilson's disclosure that as secretary of defense he plans to hold on to 2½ million dollars worth of stock in General Motors, largest military contract recipient.

Wilson, who faced reported sharp questioning at a closed session of the group yesterday, was said by committee members to have testified he will get a $40,000 a year pension from General Motors and $635,000 in bonus payments, plus 1,800 additional shares of stock.

Committee reaction to Wilson's testimony was not all favorable but Chairman Saltonstall (R.-Mass.) predicted the group would

Sun Study Is Pushed

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP) — The government is pushing research to learn whether the sun's energy can be harnassed as a new source of food and industrial power.

The power objective would be to tap solar rays as a means of augmenting "our limited or diminishing resources" of uranium, the fuel of atomic energy, as well as conventional fuels like coal.

This was disclosed today in the second annual report of the National Science Foundation (NSF). The foundation said it is sponsoring sunlight research of "immediate urgency" on its own and it attempting to coodinate similar studies by other Federal agencies.

Two Aims Cited

A foundation official told a reporter the effort is directed at finding out whether it would be possible to:

1. Use sun rays to mass-produce food protein from microscopic plants, as distinguished from growing plants in the field.

2. Develop new kinds of solid, liquid and gaseous fuels containing solar energy—and capable of being burned just like coal and oil.

Police Board Asked for New Radio Equipment, Autos

Police Chief Raymond Van-Buren suggested new police radio equipment and patrol cars in his annual report to the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday.

The report showed 199 persons injured in 143 traffic mishaps and four fatally injured in 1952 as compared to 198 injured in 136 accidents and none killed in 1951.

Arrests totalled 840 as compared to 857 in 1951, and of those made last year, 302 were for public intoxication, 111 for vehicle and traffic law violations, 108 for infractions of the city traffic code, and 128 for disorderly conduct.

Among other arrests were 42 for third degree assault, 34 for driving while intoxicated, 11 for second degree grand larceny, 23 for petit larceny, nine on gambling charges, two for third degree burglary, two for second degree assault, six for first degree grand larceny, one for first degree robbery, and four for juvenile delinquency.

The most arrests, 101, were made in May, and the lowest month was November with 40.

Radio equipment at police headquarters, the chief said, is six months old and has been on steadily since it was installed. That in the cars is also six months old.

"The old radios should be replaced by new equipment," the chief said, and he revealed that "at times the officer in headquarters cannot contact the cars by radio until the car is in a certain location. Last year 2,032 police calls were sent from headquarters to officers in the cars."

The chief said that motor equipment of the department consists

Heaviest Fog Muffles Harbor

Two Ferries Bump in Slip at Liberty Street

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—The thickest fog in years muffled New York harbor today, slowing shipping to rowboat pace.

In the second morning of heavy fog two Jersey Central Railroad ferryboats bumped each other at the Liberty street slip in lower Manhattan. No one was hurt and there was no damage.

Eleven persons were injured and hundreds shaken up yesterday when a Staten Island ferry collided with an 8,000-ton freighter near the Statue of Liberty.

Today the Lackawanna Railroad and the Erie Railroad suspended ferry service from Hoboken and Jersey City, N. J., to Manhattan. Thousands of commuters who normally ride the ferries created

Kingston Talked About as Site for Ellenville Concern

Kingston has been mentioned as one of the possible sites for location of another Channel Master plant, it was learned today.

One local source said some interest in locating here had been indicated by the Ellenville corporation, but no official comment was available today from Ellenville.

Meanwhile, the recent issue of the Citizen Herald, published at Walden, said Channel Master is showing interest in a plant that is now for sale there.

"If Channel Master should fail to locate in Walden," said the Walden paper, "it will set up a plant in either Middletown or Kingston."

Plant Up for Sale

A Walden plant, the Pellissier, Jonas & Rivet Co., has been up for sale and has attracted the attention of Channel Master, the paper reported. The plant housed the Walden Knife Co., years ago, and more recently had been only partly in use.

The Ellenville corporation, largest producer of TV antennae, said the Citizen Herald, while apparently shopping around to expand facilities, "it is reported the firm would prefer Walden if satisfactory arrangements can be made."

administrator-designate Harold E. Stassen and five other men whom Stassen identified as among key aides in reorganization of the mutual security program.

The five are Clarence Francis of New York, John H. Oley of Washington, D. C., Robert E. Matteson of Philadelphia, Willard F. Rockwell of Pittsburgh, and Admiral Delaney of Washington.

Stassen said the specific departments in which the five would serve would be announced.

Members of the Republican National subcommittee who met later with Eisenhower were:

Former U. S. Sen. Harry Darby of Kansas; G. Mason Owlett, Pennsylvania; C. C. Spades, Florida; Mrs. Wesley Dixon, Illinois; and Mrs. Neal Tourtellotte, Washington State.

To Leave for Capital

Eisenhower will leave New York by special train Sunday afternoon for Washington and arrive there that evening for Tuesday's inauguration ceremonies. The general and Mrs. Eisenhower will occupy the presidential suite at the Statler Hotel. They will be accompanied from Manhattan by other members of the family, some officials of the new administration and a large staff of aides.

Late today (about 4 p. m.) Eisenhower goes to the Columbia University campus for brief farewell talks to the students and faculty members. His resignation as president of the university is effective Monday.

He was scheduled to talk first to the students at the Seth Low Library, then go to the MacMillan Theatre to address the faculty.

Tonight he will speak to alumni of the University at a dinner honoring Young B. Smith, former dean of the University's law school.

Eisenhower left his Commodore Hotel headquarters early in the afternoon yesterday to work at his home on his inaugural address and the State of the Union Message which he will deliver before Congress, probably the latter part of this month.

Leaders Brush Demands

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—Leaders of the CIO Transport Workers Union continued today to brush off prodding from many members to call a subway shutdown in support of the 16-day-old bus strike. New demands for action against the city-owned subways, which carry 5¼ million fares a day, were heard at a meeting of 4,000 strikers yesterday. There was no organized demonstration, however. Last Sunday, union members brandished prepared signs demanding a subway strike or slowdown. The strike, which started New Year's Eve when contracts expired, has shut down eight private bus companies which normally carry 2,300,000 fares a day.

No Guess on Rosenbergs

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—Attorney General McGranery said today he couldn't hazard a guess whether President Truman would act on the clemency plea of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the convicted atomic spies, before he leaves office Tuesday. Rosenberg, a New York engineer, and his wife have been sentenced to die for passing atomic secrets to Russia. Last Saturday, they appealed to the President to spare their lives. If he does not act, the decision on their plea will be held over for the new president, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Sunlight Chases Fog

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—Sunlight today washed away a heavy fog that had slowed New York harbor shipping to a rowboat pace since yesterday morning. Airplanes resumed their flights. Automobiles that had groped through the murk speeded up to a normal pace. The New Jersey Turnpike, closed overnight from Highstown to its northern end, was opened to traffic again. The fog, thickest in the New York metropolitan area in years, was as dense as ever at dawn but gradually lifted as the morning wore on.

Late Bulletin

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—President Truman today set aside submerged offshore lands as a navy oil reserve, in the face of bitter congressional protests.

In a statement aimed at those seeking passage of legislation to vest ownership in the coastal states of California, Texas and Louisiana, the President declared:

"It has been, and still is, my firm conviction that it would be the height of folly for the United States to give away the vast quantities of oil contained in the continental shelf and then buy back this same oil at stiff prices for use by the army, the navy, and the air force in the defense of the nation."

The President had announced yesterday he was going to issue the order. In reply, his congressional critics raised cries of "outrageous," "an illegal power grab," and "personal spite."

HST Presents

of the Roosevelt and Truman administrations.

Truman's final meeting with reporters dug up one anticipated news story: The President is about to issue an executive order reserving for the national defense, and, specifically for the navy, the rich oil lands off the shores of Texas, Louisiana and California.

Ike Won't Like it

This is a legacy Eisenhower won't welcome. He has promised to support legislation giving that oil to the states. The new President can revoke Truman's order but there's bound to be a fuss. The undersea oil question is one of the hottest political potatoes around.

Truman plainly went out of his way to avoid controversy in last night's radio-television appearance. He did, however, try by implication to spike two of the Republicans' chief indictments of his administration:

1—He said his years in office have produced "positive policies"—that the nation has acted with "speed and courage and decisiveness," as it did in Korea. "We have averted World War 3 up to now," Truman said, "and we may already have succeeded in establishing conditions which can keep that war from happening as far ahead as man can see." This counters the GOP claim that the administration has allowed the nation to drift close to a new world war.

2—He asserted that "real prosperity" has been brought to the great majority of the American people. Here Truman challenged the Republican charge that the country is perched shakily on the crest of a war economy.

Cabinet Choices

approve Wilson and the four other appointees. That might not keep an individual senator from objecting and delaying inaugural day action.

Aside from these hearings for prospective cabinet members, the principal programmed activity on Capitol Hill today was in the House, where leaders sought approval of Republican and Democratic Committee assignments. That would virtually complete House organization. No business of consequence was planned at the day's meeting of the Senate.

As for cabinet hearings, four prospective appointees had committee backing for a move to confirm them Tuesday, immediately after Eisenhower formally submits their names.

The four included John Foster Dulles, named for secretary of State; Ezra T. Benson, secretary of agriculture; Douglas McKay, secretary of interior, and Arthur E. Summerfield, postmaster general who got approval Wednesday

George M. Humphrey, named for secretary of the treasury; Sinclair Weeks, secretary of commerce; Herbert Brownell, Jr., attorney general, and Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, federal security administrator, will be given hearings Monday.

Wilson's appointment still was up in the air, but Benson and McKay got committee approvals after some rugged questioning.

Sen. Young (R-N.D.) told reporters he will vote against Benson because the latter was "too vague about what he intends to do" about maintaining a high level of farm price support payments.

Young said Benson lacked knowledge of midwest farm problems and "has been associating with two many professors and theorists."

The agriculture committee voted, however, to tell the Senate Tuesday it approves of the appointment and doesn't want additional hearings.

Dulles faced some critical Democratic questioning about Republican campaign charges that the Truman administration's foreign policies had failed and that this country had betrayed friendly nations.

Dulles, who wrote the foreign policy plank in the GOP platform, agreed some extravagant words had been used during the campaign. But he said all of these should be forgotten now. He promised the Democrats will be kept informed on policy formation.

Assured and confident in his hearing, Dulles won speedy and unanimous advance approval of the committee for his confirmation Tuesday.

TV Cuts Library Fiction Demand, Hickey Re-elected

At the annual organizational meeting of the board of trustees of the Kingston City Library Association this week officers were elected and reports read, one of which revealed that television has made "quite a difference" in the number of fiction books circulated.

According to Miss Mary A. Schaeffer, librarian there has been less of a demand for fiction books since the installation of television in many homes of the community, but there have been many requests for technical books, and the library is used more for reference work than in the past.

Capt. Andrew S. Hickey, U. S. retired, was re-elected president of the library association, and officers chosen to serve with him again were Clair S. Sheaffer, vice president; Mrs. Harold King, secretary, and James H. Betts, treasurer.

At the annual membership meeting, Francis Martocci was re-elected to the board of trustees. Mrs. John B. Sterley was elected to the board to succeed Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge, and J. Richard Shults was named to succeed Warren Russell. Trustees serve for three year terms.

Reports Are Read

Reports of the president, treasurer, secretary were read. Other reports were from Trustee Betts, building committee chairmen, and Mrs. Dodge, publicity chairman. Suggestions for enlarging the usefulness of the library were presented by Eugene Brossard; Miss Bertha Parrish, former Brooklyn librarian, and Patrick Murphy.

A summary of the accomplishments of the board during the past three years and plans for future enlargement of the library's service were given by Trustee Martocci.

In her annual librarian's report, Miss Schaeffer, disclosed that the library purchased 613 books, subscribed for 84 magazines and six newspapers in 1952; at a total cost of $1,777.10. Only $21.51 was spent for rebinding, as a new library paste has made it possible to mend many books at the library.

Many books, 12 magazine subscriptions and two newspaper subscriptions were given by individuals or organizations, Miss Schaeffer reported. Duplicate books are kept to replace copies that wear out.

Many Use Library

A total of 1,325 persons registered or re-registered during the year, making a total of 4,134 active borrowers. During the same period, 2,319 persons used the library for reference.

The loan of 57,713 books and periodicals was recorded, including 17,933 non-fiction books and 12,348 books for children.

In July, the library was closed for three weeks while the reading rooms were redecorated. Paint was contributed by J. R. Shults, and new window shades were purchased.

Gifts of money were received from the Atharhacton Club, Sorosis Club, Lowell Literary Club and the Music Appreciation Group, as well as from individuals.

Miss Schaeffer reported the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association and the County Health Department kept the library staff informed of the new books and pamphlets added to their libraries, so that it was possible for the city library staff to give this information to others.

Miss Marie Siemsen of Sawkill, as in past years, gave the attractive Christmas decoration.

Jury Enters Second Day of Deliberation

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—A federal court jury picked up a new armload of documents today and went back into deliberations on the fate of 13 second-string U. S. Communist party leaders charged with conspiracy.

It was the second day of deliberations for the jury of six men and six women who got the case in mid-afternoon yesterday.

Before returning to the jury room at 10 a. m. today, the jury obtained from the court an additional batch of documentary evidence.

Ex-Soldiers

here last Tuesday. The indictment was opened yesterday after their arrest.

U. S. military police arrested them in Vienna and they were brought here in a military plane.

Rumpled, hatless and tieless, the dour and silent men were hustled down the ramp of the plane at Washington airport in the black pre-dawn hours of today, handcuffed to FBI agents.

Their formal arrest, culminating an investigation and surveillance of several years, was made when the FBI boarded the plane and took them from the custody of pistol-bearing army officers who brought them from Vienna.

Couldn't Give Bail

Taken to the federal court building, they were arraigned on charges of violating the espionage act, with "Yuri V. Novikov as co-conspirator." He is the second secretary of the Soviet embassy here. The United States, following diplomatic custom, did not include him in the indictment, but in a note to the embassy requested his prompt departure from this country.

It was the first time an investigation of espionage in the U. S. had led directly to the ornate bronze doors of the Soviet embassy.

Ownership Established

The ownership of an old model pickup truck reported abandoned on Yarmouth street last week has been established, County Investigator Arthur H. Brown reported. The truck, which was not serviceable, had been towed to Yarmouth street and left there by two youths, who thought it was safely off the road and out of everybody's way. The youths apparently intended to call for it later, according to Brown's report. Meanwhile, it was found to be blocking a driveway and the sheriff's office ordered it towed to a local garage. The youths claimed the truck, agreed to pay the towing bill, and no further action was taken. Their names were not revealed.

$70,000 Is Stolen

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 16 (AP)—Three young gunmen staged a daring daylight holdup in a residential area bank today and escaped with almost $70,000 in cash. The stickup was accomplished while passengers in a bus halted outside looked placidly through the bank window at one of the customers standing with hands raised over his head. The bank robbers, brandishing guns, cowed five tellers, 10 customers and bank officials at the Hamilton Branch of the Broad Street National Bank before they made their escape in an auto bearing New Jersey license plates.

Kingston Talked About as Site for Ellenville Concern

Kingston has been mentioned as one of the possible sites for location of another Channel Master plant, it was learned today.

One local source said some interest in locating here had been indicated by the Ellenville corporation, but no official comment was available today from Ellenville.

Meanwhile, the recent issue of the Citizen Herald, published at Walden, said Channel Master is showing interest in a plant that is now for sale there.

"If Channel Master should fail to locate in Walden," said the Walden paper, "it will set up a plant in either Middletown or Kingston."

Plant Up for Sale

A Walden plant, the Pellissier, Jonas & Rivet Co., has been up for sale and has attracted the attention of Channel Master, the paper reported. The plant housed the Walden Knife Co., years ago, and more recently had been only partly in use.

The Ellenville corporation, largest producer of TV antennae, said the Citizen Herald, while apparently shopping around to expand facilities, "it is reported the firm would prefer Walden if satisfactory arrangements can be made."

administrator-designate Harold E. Stassen and five other men whom Stassen identified as among key aides in reorganization of the mutual security program.

The five are Clarence Francis of New York, John H. Oley of Washington, D. C., Robert E. Matteson of Philadelphia, Willard F. Rockwell of Pittsburgh, and Admiral Delaney of Washington.

Stassen said the specific departments in which the five would serve would be announced.

Members of the Republican National subcommittee who met later with Eisenhower were:

Former U. S. Sen. Harry Darby of Kansas; G. Mason Owlett, Pennsylvania; C. C. Spades, Florida; Mrs. Wesley Dixon, Illinois; and Mrs. Neal Tourtellotte, Washington State.

To Leave for Capital

Eisenhower will leave New York by special train Sunday afternoon for Washington and arrive there that evening for Tuesday's inauguration ceremonies. The general and Mrs. Eisenhower will occupy the presidential suite at the Statler Hotel. They will be accompanied from Manhattan by other members of the family, some officials of the new administration and a large staff of aides.

Late today (about 4 p. m.) Eisenhower goes to the Columbia University campus for brief farewell talks to the students and faculty members. His resignation as president of the university is effective Monday.

He was scheduled to talk first to the students at the Seth Low Library, then go to the MacMillan Theatre to address the faculty.

Tonight he will speak to alumni of the University at a dinner honoring Young B. Smith, former dean of the University's law school.

Eisenhower left his Commodore Hotel headquarters early in the afternoon yesterday to work at his home on his inaugural address and the State of the Union Message which he will deliver before Congress, probably the latter part of this month.

Leaders Brush Demands

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—Leaders of the CIO Transport Workers Union continued today to brush off prodding from many members to call a subway shutdown in support of the 16-day-old bus strike. New demands for action against the city-owned subways, which carry 5¼ million fares a day, were heard at a meeting of 4,000 strikers yesterday. There was no organized demonstration, however. Last Sunday, union members brandished prepared signs demanding a subway strike or slowdown. The strike, which started New Year's Eve when contracts expired, has shut down eight private bus companies which normally carry 2,300,000 fares a day.

No Guess on Rosenbergs

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—Attorney General McGranery said today he couldn't hazard a guess whether President Truman would act on the clemency plea of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, the convicted atomic spies, before he leaves office Tuesday. Rosenberg, a New York engineer, and his wife have been sentenced to die for passing atomic secrets to Russia. Last Saturday, they appealed to the President to spare their lives. If he does not act, the decision on their plea will be held over for the new president, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Sunlight Chases Fog

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—Sunlight today washed away a heavy fog that had slowed New York harbor shipping to a rowboat pace since yesterday morning. Airplanes resumed their flights. Automobiles that had groped through the murk speeded up to a normal pace. The New Jersey Turnpike, closed overnight from Highstown to its northern end, was opened to traffic again. The fog, thickest in the New York metropolitan area in years, was as dense as ever at dawn but gradually lifted as the morning wore on.

Late Bulletin

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—President Truman today set aside submerged offshore lands as a navy oil reserve, in the face of bitter congressional protests.

In a statement aimed at those seeking passage of legislation to vest ownership in the coastal states of California, Texas and Louisiana, the President declared:

"It has been, and still is, my firm conviction that it would be the height of folly for the United States to give away the vast quantities of oil contained in the continental shelf and then buy back this same oil at stiff prices for use by the army, the navy, and the air force in the defense of the nation."

The President had announced yesterday he was going to issue the order. In reply, his congressional critics raised cries of "outrageous," "an illegal power grab," and "personal spite."

HST Presents

of the Roosevelt and Truman administrations.

Truman's final meeting with reporters dug up one anticipated news story: The President is about to issue an executive order reserving for the national defense, and specifically for the navy, the rich oil lands off the shores of Texas, Louisiana and California.

Ike Won't Like it

This is a legacy Eisenhower won't welcome. He has promised to support legislation giving that oil to the states. The new President can revoke Truman's order but there's bound to be a fuss. The undersea oil question is one of the hottest political potatoes around.

Truman plainly went out of his way to avoid controversy in last night's radio-television appearance. He did, however, try by implication to spike two of the Republicans' chief indictments of his administration:

1—He said his years in office have produced "positive policies"—that the nation has acted with "speed and courage and decisiveness," as it did in Korea. "We have averted World War 3 up to now," Truman said, "and we may already have succeeded in establishing conditions which can keep that war from happening as far ahead as man can see." This counters the GOP claim that the administration has allowed the nation to drift close to a new world war.

2—He asserted that "real prosperity" has been brought to the great majority of the American people. Here Truman challenged the Republican charge that the country is perched shakily on the crest of a war economy.

Cabinet Choices

approve Wilson and the four other appointees. That might not keep an individual senator from objecting and delaying inaugural day action.

Aside from these hearings for prospective cabinet members, the principal programmed activity on Capitol Hill today was in the House, where leaders sought approval of Republican and Democratic Committee assignments. That would virtually complete House organization. No business of consequence was planned at the day's meeting of the Senate.

As for cabinet hearings, four prospective appointees had committee backing for a move to confirm them Tuesday, immediately after Eisenhower formally submits their names.

The four included John Foster Dulles, named for secretary of State; Ezra T. Benson, secretary of agriculture; Douglas McKay, secretary of interior, and Arthur E. Summerfield, postmaster general who got approval Wednesday.

George M. Humphrey, named for secretary of the treasury; Sinclair Weeks, secretary of commerce; Herbert Brownell, Jr., attorney general, and Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, federal security administrator, will be given hearings Monday.

Wilson's appointment still was up in the air, but Benson and McKay got committee approvals after some rugged questioning.

Sen. Young (R-N.D.) told reporters he will vote against Benson because the latter was "too vague about what he intends to do" about maintaining a high level of farm price support payments.

Young said Benson lacked knowledge of midwest farm problems and "has been associating with two many professors and theorists."

The agriculture committee voted, however, to tell the Senate Tuesday it approves of the appointment and doesn't want additional hearings.

Dulles faced some critical Democratic questioning about Republican campaign charges that the Truman administration's foreign policies had failed and that this country had betrayed friendly nations.

Dulles, who wrote the foreign policy plank in the GOP platform, agreed some extravagant words had been used during the campaign. But he said all of these should be forgotten now. He promised the Democrats will be kept informed on policy formation.

Assured and confident in his hearing, Dulles won speedy and unanimous advance approval of the committee for his confirmation Tuesday.

TV Cuts Library Fiction Demand, Hickey Re-elected

At the annual organizational meeting of the board of trustees of the Kingston City Library Association this week officers were elected and reports read, one of which revealed that television has made "quite a difference" in the number of fiction books circulated.

According to Miss Mary A. Schaeffer, librarian there has been less of a demand for fiction books since the installation of television in many homes of the community, but there have been many requests for technical books, and the library is used more for reference work than in the past.

Capt. Andrew S. Hickey, U. S. retired, was re-elected president of the library association, and officers chosen to serve with him again were Clair S. Sheaffer, vice president; Mrs. Harold King, secretary, and James H. Betts, treasurer.

At the annual membership meeting, Francis Martocci was re-elected to the board of trustees. Mrs. John B. Sterley was elected to the board to succeed Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge, and J. Richard Shults was named to succeed Warren Russell. Trustees serve for three year terms.

Reports Are Read

Reports of the president, treasurer, secretary were read. Other reports were from Trustee Betts, building committee chairmen, and Mrs. Dodge, publicity chairman. Suggestions for enlarging the usefulness of the library were presented by Eugene Brossard; Miss Bertha Parrish, former Brooklyn librarian, and Patrick Murphy.

A summary of the accomplishments of the board during the past three years and plans for future enlargement of the library's service were given by Trustee Martocci.

In her annual librarian's report, Miss Schaeffer, disclosed that the library purchased 613 books, subscribed for 84 magazines and six newspapers in 1952; at a total cost of $1,777.10. Only $21.51 was spent for rebinding, as a new library paste has made it possible to mend many books at the library.

Many books, 12 magazine subscriptions and two newspaper subscriptions were given by individuals or organizations, Miss Schaeffer reported. Duplicate books are kept to replace copies that wear out.

Many Use Library

A total of 1,325 persons registered or re-registered during the year, making a total of 4,134 active borrowers. During the same period, 2,319 persons used the library for reference.

The loan of 57,713 books and periodicals was recorded, including 17,933 non-fiction books and 12,348 books for children.

In July, the library was closed for three weeks while the reading rooms were redecorated. Paint was contributed by J. R. Shults, and new window shades were purchased.

Gifts of money were received from the Atharhacton Club, Sorosis Club, Lowell Literary Club and the Music Appreciation Group, as well as from individuals.

Miss Schaeffer reported the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association and the County Health Department kept the library staff informed of the new books and pamphlets added to their libraries, so that it was possible for the city library staff to give this information to others.

Miss Marie Siemsen of Sawkill, as in past years, gave the attractive Christmas decoration.

Jury Enters Second Day of Deliberation

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—A federal court jury picked up a new armload of documents today and went back into deliberations on the fate of 13 second-string U. S. Communist party leaders charged with conspiracy.

It was the second day of deliberations for the jury of six men and six women who got the case in mid-afternoon yesterday.

Before returning to the jury room at 10 a. m. today, the jury obtained from the court an additional batch of documentary evidence.

Ex-Soldiers

here last Tuesday. The indictment was opened yesterday after their arrest.

U. S. military police arrested them in Vienna and they were brought here in a military plane.

Rumpled, hatless and tieless, the dour and silent men were hustled down the ramp of the plane at Washington airport in the black pre-dawn hours of today, handcuffed to FBI agents.

Their formal arrest, culminating an investigation and surveillance of several years, was made when the FBI boarded the plane and took them from the custody of pistol-bearing army officers who brought them from Vienna.

Couldn't Give Bail

Taken to the federal court building, they were arraigned on charges of violating the espionage act, with "Yuri V. Novikov as co-conspirator." He is the second secretary of the Soviet embassy here. The United States, following diplomatic custom, did not include him in the indictment, but in a note to the embassy requested his prompt departure from this country.

It was the first time an investigation of espionage in the U. S. had led directly to the ornate bronze doors of the Soviet embassy.

U. S. Commissioner C. S. Lawrence set bail at $50,000 each, and the prisoners went to jail because the money was not forthcoming.

Ownership Established

The ownership of an old model pickup truck reported abandoned on Yarmouth street last week has been established, County Investigator Arthur H. Brown reported. The truck, which was not serviceable, had been towed to Yarmouth street and left there by two youths, who thought it was safely off the road and out of everybody's way. The youths apparently intended to call for it later, according to Brown's report. Meanwhile, it was found to be blocking a driveway and the sheriff's office ordered it towed to a local garage. The youths claimed the truck, agreed to pay the towing bill, and no further action was taken. Their names were not revealed.

$70,000 Is Stolen

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 16 (AP)—Three young gunmen staged a daring daylight holdup in a residential area bank today and escaped with almost $70,000 in cash. The stickup was accomplished while passengers in a bus halted outside looked placidly through the bank window at one of the customers standing with hands raised over his head. The bank robbers, brandishing guns, cowed five tellers, 10 customers and bank officials at the Hamilton Branch of the Broad Street National Bank before they made their escape in an auto bearing New Jersey license plates.

NATIONAL THRIFT WEEK

Benj. Franklin's Birthday launches NATIONAL THRIFT WEEK on January 17th! Franklin is remembered for his contributions to many interests, but particularly at this time, for the part he played in establishing a sound economic basis in the early history of the American republic! NO PLATE ON FRONT OF CAR

Use of your old license plate on the front of your car, after you attach the 1953 single plate to the rear of the vehicle, is illegal. The 1952 plates expire at midnight, Monday, February 2.

Counsel to the motor vehicle commissioner points out that a 1951 amendment to the vehicle and traffic law provided one number plate would be issued for 1953 "which shall be displayed on the rear of the vehicle and none shall be displayed on the front."

HIGH SPEED AND ACCIDENTS

High speed was one of the principal factors in the majority of accidents taking place on vertical curves, according to a study made by the New York State Department of Public Works.

The findings were based on driver-performance data recorded for free-moving passenger cars at the sites of 20 vertical curves on two-lane rural highways in the state.

The study indicated that drivers do reduce their speeds as they approach vertical curves with short sight distances, but that the amount of reduction in speed is not as great as is necessary to provide entirely safe operating conditions. Drivers apparently do not believe that critical situations will occur at vertical curves which require them to come to a stop, or they believe they can stop in a much shorter distance than the distance which is actually required.

The department concludes that design and uniform pavement markings alone will not solve the problem of maximum highway safety, but that in addition, drivers must exercise good judgment consistent with existing highway facilities.

It has been established long ago that speed is fully responsible for 50 per cent of the highway fatalities. The traffic death toll last year was approximately 38,000.

It would seem that this appalling death toll would convince operators that by speeding they are contributing more to human misery than any plague in modern times.

The tempting, tasty home-made pie turned out by the little woman after lengthy mixing, fixing and baking is bound to face a fatal calamity. For the better it is the shorter it lasts.

HISTORIANS HAVE THE LAST WORD

One of the remarkable features of present-day life is the self-consciousness of our top political figures about their places in history.

Nowadays our statesmen generally begin making things easy for the historian even before they have laid down the robes of office. A considerable time before he died, Franklin D. Roosevelt was busy helping along the project for the memorial library that now houses his official and private papers.

Friends already are raising funds for a similar library in Grandview, Mo., for President Truman's documents. But Mr. Truman couldn't wait for that project to get going. He permitted publication in 1952 of a book that reveals a lot of his private papers. In these last days in the White House, he's concentrating on setting the historians aright.

And for more than a decade, others have been galloping into print with their memoirs at the earliest possible moment.

All this is very thoughtful of these gentlemen. But one may be pardoned for suspecting that the objective historian may still find quite a lot of work cut out for him in evaluating their respective places in history.

At last the holiday interlude is over. And we wonder how many of us will require the full 51 weeks to rest up for the next one.

EXIT SANTA CLAUS

The bars have been erected against Santa Claus. Word comes from Eastern Europe that it is no longer permitted to attribute holiday gifts to him. Instead children are told that they come from Little Father Frost. He hails from Russia, and brings not so much presents as propaganda. To rub it in, St. Stephen's Day, which follows Christmas, is henceforth to be a work day in Hungary. This is solemnly proclaimed as the "realization of a wish long cherished by the workers."

Any one who believes that last statement will swallow anything.

THE MOROCCAN BASES

The importance of the Moroccan bases which the United States has been building is often overlooked in the confusing reports and charges which led to a reprimand of General Lewis A. Pick, Chief of Engineers, by the Secretary of War, Frank Pace, Jr.

Actually, three investigations have been made and three reports have been issued. Two of these reports are favorable; one is critical. The critical report, issued by the Senate Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee and signed by Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, made headlines because, if read carelessly, it indicated that hundreds of millions of dollars of the American taxpayers' money were being buried in the sands of the Sahara. The House Subcommittee on Military Public Works issued a report by its chairman, Representative John J. Riley, who gave evidence as to a remarkable job done under almost impossible conditions. The Secretary of War engaged Glenn W. Maxon, an engineer of reputation and experience, to make an independent survey of the bases, and Maxon's report is most favorable to the work that had been done under crash conditions.

From all three reports, it is possible to observe that whatever faults exist in this particular operation, they were due to high level decisions, to delayed negotiations with the French, and to Washington indecision and red-tape.

In spite of Mr. Pace's running to cover on the eve of a national election and his throwing the blame on a military officer who cannot answer back without being insubordinate, a tremendous lot has been accomplished in Morocco.

These bases, the largest in the world designed to make it possible for our planes to cover the whole of Europe, were ordered in a hurry to be ready in July, 1951, an apparent impossibility. Yet in 82 days, after ground was broken, the Army engineers had built a field that was usable. This is called "crash construction" under the circumstances of which costs are not taken into account, because the results are so important and pressing.

The contractors had to build not only airfields that would hold the largest planes already in existence, some projected and still on paper, but also five cities with all facilities necessary for a defensible airbase of primary magnitude.

No one questions the importance of these bases in the defense of the United States, should Soviet Russia attempt the conquest of Western Europe.

The issue is whether they have been wastefully built and if anyone is culpable. When ordered, the top policy makers believed that Russia intended war and rushed to the defenses. Rush jobs always are badly planned and cost lots of money. If any error is involved, it is in the rush factor. Also a factor is the usual military method of constantly changing plans without regard to a contractor's costs in such changes.

Mr. Riley made the point in his report:

". . . where one year before there had been nothing, there existed at two locations in Morocco at the time these hearings began in April 1952, usable air bases and there was in the process of establishment an important link in the defense of the West.

"As the investigation continued it was seen that all of this had been accomplished under incredible working conditions. There had been no advance plans or specifications, or even more important there were no master plans; construction and planning had to be done simultaneously. . . ."

Another problem that arose is also due to the characteristic Washington habit of making big appropriations and then tying them into a knot of red-tape. Of this Representative Riley said:

". . . the district engineer was forced to work under conditions of almost month-to-month bankruptcy. At hardly no time after heavy work had commenced was he supplied with sufficient funds to see further ahead than 30 days, although the lead time required for procurement of construction materials was several months long."

I have now read the reports available on this subject, as well as a good deal of the testimony at hearings and find that the work is progressing remarkably well. What I cannot understand is why Mr. Pace chose General Lewis A. Pick, Chief of Engineers, as a scapegoat when one was necessary. All he needed to do was to present the facts. He might even have taken credit for them.

That Body of Yours

NEW OPERATION FOR RUPTURED DISC

Now that a ruptured disc is becoming more common and operation to remove the disc relieves pressure on the root or roots of the large sciatic nerve, many cases of low back pain and sciatica are being cured.

At first, only operation to remove the ruptured disc was used, then later operation to keep the spinal bones from growing too close together and again causing pressure was employed. A new method of surgical prevention of return of pain and disability has been tested and found to be a permanent cure in many cases.

In the Hawaii Medical Journal, Honolulu, Dr. R. B. Cloward reports his development of a new method in which he fuses the bodies of the vertebrae (spinal bone surrounding the spinal canal covering spinal cord). The aim of his operation is to keep the space between the bones the same as before the rupture of the disc because the disc keeps the bones far enough apart that there would be no pressure on nerves coming out from the spinal cord.

By fusing (making the bones grow together), leaving spaces for nerves to come out between the bones, complete relief from pain was obtained. Between the bones he inserted plugs of bone taking the place of the disc or discs removed. At first, he removed parts from the top of the hip bone as plugs to replace discs, but after the operation many patients complained of the pain where the bone had been removed from the hip bone, this pain being severe and lasting for months and years. After the first three months, therefore, Dr. Cloward used preserved bone from a bone bank for the grafts in a total of 87 vertebral body fusions. This prevented the pain and shortened the stay in hospital, the patient being able to leave hospital within ten days after operation.

This method of treatment has been used by Dr. Cloward in 250 cases since 1944. "The high percentage of permanent cures with no remaining disability to those treated before 1944" convinced him that this operation is the treatment of choice for ruptured vertebral disc. Further, the use of a Taylor brace to support the back temporarily is unnecessary after this operation. The objection to use of a brace worn too long is that it shortens and hardens the muscles of the lower back which support the spinal column.

Dr. Cloward emphasizes that his fusion operation has reduced the period of disability following operation and has lessened considerably the expense of the illness both in time off from work and in cost of hospitalization.

As there are thousands of cases of low back pain and sciatica due to ruptured disc, this new operation should mean much to those thus afflicted.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—It is now possible to report the chief highlights of the Churchill-Eisenhower and the Churchill-Washington conversations; also some of the amusing sidelights—for no conversation with the British prime minister is without its whimsical moments.

During the New York talks when Churchill was urging Anglo-American cooperation of atomic energy, Eisenhower remarked that one of his problems was to keep the committees of Congress advised.

"Yes," grunted Churchill, "I've had considerable experience in advising your committees. My friend Mr. Roosevelt had trouble advising the committees of Congress. And my friend Mr. Truman had the same trouble. And when I have come over here I have had to advise them myself."

During the dinner at the British Embassy in Washington, the top statesmen of the Anglo-American world also spent some little time discussing such weighty matters as American and British slang, how certain colloquialisms got started, and seemed especially intrigued over the origin of one of Mr. Truman's pet phrases referring to a pain in a certain portion of the anatomy.

President Truman told Churchill not to be surprised if he showed up in London soon; and after the President played a couple of his favorite pieces on the Embassy's grand piano, the prime minister quipped: "I wonder if General Eisenhower can do as well?"

Meet With Stalin

The Churchill-Eisenhower talks in New York were inconclusive but extremely helpful for future guidance. Here is a summary of their main points:

Big Three Meeting—Churchill virtually paraphrased Governor Stevenson's advice that the solution to the Korean war was in Moscow and deftly suggested that Ike not take his eye off Moscow. He urged that Eisenhower think seriously about accepting Stalin's idea of a joint meeting, emphasized that he would want to be present at such a meeting, said that even if nothing came of it, the meeting would at least show we are not warmongers and that the west is not afraid to meet with Stalin. Eisenhower appeared sympathetic.

Korea—The prime minister objected vigorously to plans for using Chiang Kai-shek's troops in Korea and the idea of blockading the Chinese mainland. This was perhaps the only discordant note of the session. Churchill argued eloquently that this would spread the war to the Chinese mainland. Finally, Eisenhower told him he hadn't definitely decided what to do.

Eisenhower also said he hadn't made up his mind what should be done about a new offensive in Korea, though it is under consideration. He was convinced that some new strategy must be developed in a hurry to end the stalemate, agreed to talk more conclusively after he became President. No new offensive, he promised, would be undertaken without prior consultation. Details of a proposed offensive were discussed, but cannot be revealed here.

Far East—Churchill expressed concern over the economic threat of Japan, said Japanese cheap labor might knock the United Kingdom out of world markets, warned that England might need stronger barriers against both Japan and Germany. If help was forthcoming on this, Churchill hinted that England would be more helpful in defending Europe. He seemed miffed that Truman hadn't worked out a deal with the British Labor government to include England in "ANGUS," the Australia, New Zealand, U. S. A. Pact for defense of the Far East, and proposed that Britain be admitted, together with France and perhaps India or Indonesia.

Atom Bomb—The Prime Minister detailed the large amount of money England recently spent developing atomic energy, argued that it was sensless for the free world to drain its resources by such duplication, emphasized the importance of exchanging atomic information. On this point Eisenhower is bound by law not to exchange information with any other country, so could only promise to examine the entire matter with Congress.

Middle East—Churchill put great emphasis on cooperation in this delicate area, especially Iran. A compromise for the arbitration of the Iranian Oil dispute, more acceptable to the British, is being negotiated secretely in London; so part of the urgency of this problem was eased. Churchill suggested that U. S. troops patrol the Suez Canal along with the British.

Acheson's Last Plea

European Defense—During most of the New York talks Churchill was the eloquent pleader, Eisenhower the listener. But in Washington, Dean Acheson reversed this and staged one of his most eloquent and perhaps last appeal as secretary of state.

Acheson, who is the father of the North Atlantic Defense Pact, took a hurried trip to Europe last spring when it looked as if France and Germany might not sign the unified European army treaty. Thanks largely to his daring mission plus Acheson eloquence, the pact was rescued. But since then, changing governments in France together with presidential elections here have sent NATO goals downward and put the unified European army in serious jeopardy.

Acheson, therefore, urged Churchill to assume new and vigorous leadership on the continent. Reminding him that the transition vacuum between the Truman and Eisenhower administrations could be dangerous, he implored Churchill to give NATO guidance, inspiration, and encouragement.

Churchill, he strongly hinted, holds within the palm of his hand the opportunity to turn Europe toward eventual war or toward permanent peace. Without putting it in such blunt language, he suggested that the aging prime minister not be stubborn about British oil investments in Iran or about the Egyptian Sudan which Churchill still remembers as part of a glorious empire when he was a young war correspondent accompanying his majesty's troops on their conquest of the upper Nile.

As an attorney, Acheson has made many an eloquent plea before the courts. But never has he made one with more conviction than to Churchill during his last days as secretary of state.

Acheson Has Served, for Practical Purposes, as President for Harry S. Truman

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—The eyes of the nation might well have been focused on two men this week—neither of them a President or President-elect but each of them so influential that the course of history has been materially affected and will be affected by their acts.

One was Secretary of State Dean Acheson saying his farewells, and the other was John Foster Dulles being quizzed by a Senate committee, which then voted unanimously to recommend to the Senate next Tuesday confirmation of his appointment. Mr. Dulles' outline of proposed foreign policy was as refreshing as it was realistic.

For all practical purposes, Dean Acheson has been President of the United States during the critical period of the Truman administration. Mr. Truman was incapable himself of formulating foreign policies and depended almost entirely on the judgment and advice of Dean Acheson. The so-called Truman Doctrine originated with Dean Acheson, and so did the so-called Marshall Plan, to which must be added the fact that a group of imaginative planners in the Department of State wrote the basic memoranda on which the ultimate policies were based.

Relations between President Truman and Dean Acheson have been intimate. The secretary of state was always at the Union Station or the airport to meet Mr. Truman when he was coming or going. And Mr. Truman had such an unbounded admiration for his secretary of state that he wouldn't listen to criticism of foreign policies. He used to say that the critics weren't "fit to black the boots of Acheson."

But an appraisal of the Acheson policies and of his attitude while in public office will leave the historian with a query as to whether the course of history might have been different, especially in the Far East and Korea, if Mr. Truman had responded to popular demand and changed the secretary of state as he did other cabinet officers who came under criticism.

"The Washington Post," which has more often than not supported Mr. Acheson's policies, had a rather interesting analysis of the secretary of state in an editorial on Thursday. After praising him for some of his policies, the "Post" spoke of him as having a mind "superbly equipped for analysis and finely trained for argument and negotiation," but added, "it is a mind short of conceptions." The editorial says further:

"No secretary of state in living memory has commanded more respect on the part of his colleagues for intellect and adherence to principle, yet no secretary can have left the department so demoralized. The reason is clear. At the onset of his career as secretary of state he made an error of the heart, and this proceeded, with expert GOP aid and lack of much fighting back, to engulf the department. The error, of course, was Mr. Acheson's compassionate reference to Alger Hiss. From that time on, though he refused to believe it, he was damned as a public official. Congress sought to starve him out. It refused to give the department functions that orderly administration required of it. Congress, as a cabinet member once said, would have stripped the State Department of everything but its obloquy."

But the fact is that Secretary Acheson lost public favor because he bungled China policy. He kept on saying that the nation must go through endless years of tension waiting for the Russians to get over their "cold war" tactics and become peaceful. He intervened to prevent maximum power from being used to end the Korean war when General MacArthur recommended it, and he publicly announced a willingness to end the Korean war by negotiating a truce at the 38th Parallel. It was a surrender of the objective of the war itself—to defeat the enemy.

In contrast, John Foster Dulles, who is to be the new secretary of state, while arguing also against a "general war," told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that there are things that can be done to break up the China-Moscow alliance. He promised "cold war" policies that are "strong but not reckless and which will end the peril without provoking a dying spasm of total violence."

Mr. Dulles also lamented the slipping away of European unity, which he feels at the moment is in a process of "disintegration, not integration." He mentioned new crises in the Middle East and in Indo-China and Korea. He referred to the dangers in Central and South America, where communistic activity has been stepped up recently, and said: "If we don't look out, we'll wake up some morning and read in the newspapers that the same thing has happened in Central and South America as happened in China in 1949. The time to deal with the situation is now, before it's too late."

Most important of all was Mr. Dulles' comprehensive statement about the "liberation" of enslaved peoples, which he said must have high priority in the new administration. He said again, as he did during the campaign, that there are many methods available short of war and without the need for "premature" revolts in the satellite states that would be crushed in bloody violence.

Lots of people have been saying all this is impossible—that there are no ways but the Truman-Acheson way of doing things. Mr. Dulles says that those who say nothing can be done along the line of the "liberation" crusade and to break up Russia's power without going to war "just don't know what they're talking about."

So out goes a secretary of state who, in effect, says nothing can be done, and in comes one who has caught the spirit of the election landslide which says something can and must be done. It's a significant contrast.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The New York Journal-American published the other day a "three-page historical evaluation of America's presidents" by Prof. Allan Nevins, described as a "noted historian, author and editor." A historian is a memorizer who may or may not keep the faith by telling the truth or slanting the story of mankind to serve some ulterior ism after the manner of the political plugs which have come to serve as counterfeit for literary criticism in the Herald Tribune and the New York Times. This Nevins had the gall to rate Herbert Hoover as "mediocre," just a grade above "poor" in his scale, and Franklin D. Roosevelt as "excellent," just below the rating he gave Washington and Lincoln.

I hold this man to be intellectually warped because, granting that he actually does think by those values, he convicts himself of commending the most corrupt president in our history, a swindler who hoisted his two deadbeat sons on a wide range of vulnerable suckers, permitted his rapacious wife and daughter to harvest fortunes of highly questionable white graft, planted about 30 of his ne'er-do-well, no-good kinnery on the public payrolls, loaded the federal bureaucracy with immigrant spies and traitorous native adherents of a hostile power, degraded the ideal of American public service to a depth never before plumbed by any American, and drew a blood bath which now awaits a generation which knows the scoundrel only by reputation.

Whether he is a historian or just a propagandist, Nevins plainly is too intelligent not to know that Roosevelt's long presidency marked the infestation of our government by a horde of liars and sophists and the official, organized repudiation of patriotism and honor. He was so crooked that he held out for a bribe of a quarter of a million as his price for running for governor of New York in 1928, a fact admitted piecemeal, under pressure of proof, by his graceless wife who was in on the deal with John J. Raskob. He was so mean in his greed that he even laid off the old family hostlers at Hyde Park on the pretense that they were closing out the stable and then, by Presidential order, assigned enlisted cavalry soldiers to do their work at public expense.

I challenge any devotee of the Roosevelt theology to defend this faker against any of the charges of rascality that have been proven against him, including the crime of brain-picking in his theft of a magazine piece about the old Mauretania, an offense for which Nevins, in his pretense to the title of "author," should despise Roosevelt beyond forgiveness.

In writing these reminders it is not that I seize on Nevins' affront to morals as a mere pretext to review Roosevelt's unerring instinct for the depraved alternative to decent conduct. If Nevins had merely smeared Hoover with whatever mendacity, I would have ignored that as a typical cynicism of a type of prof who, fortunately, is getting caught up with at belated last. But we all have observed the beginning of a new campaign to regild the spurious glory of a betrayer without a rival in modern history and, at the same time, exonerate a scheming reflict who flaunts her mournful weeds but seldom sought his company if there was a check to be had for a speech in Syracuse or Boston.

Counsel to the motor vehicle commissioner points out that a 1951 amendment to the vehicle and traffic law provided one number plate would be issued for 1953 "which shall be displayed on the rear of the vehicle and none shall be displayed on the front."

HIGH SPEED AND ACCIDENTS

High speed was one of the principal factors in the majority of accidents taking place on vertical curves, according to a study made by the New York State Department of Public Works.

The findings were based on driver-performance data recorded for free-moving passenger cars at the sites of 20 vertical curves on two-lane rural highways in the state.

The study indicated that drivers do reduce their speeds as they approach vertical curves with short sight distances, but that the amount of reduction in speed is not as great as is necessary to provide entirely safe operating conditions. Drivers apparently do not believe that critical situations will occur at vertical curves which require them to come to a stop, or they believe they can stop in a much shorter distance than the distance which is actually required.

The department concludes that design and uniform pavement markings alone will not solve the problem of maximum highway safety, but that in addition, drivers must exercise good judgment consistent with existing highway facilities.

It has been established long ago that speed is fully responsible for 50 per cent of the highway fatalities. The traffic death toll last year was approximately 38,000.

It would seem that this appalling death toll would convince operators that by speeding they are contributing more to human misery than any plague in modern times.

The tempting, tasty home-made pie turned out by the little woman after lengthy mixing, fixing and baking is bound to face a fatal calamity. For the better it is the shorter it lasts.

HISTORIANS HAVE THE LAST WORD

One of the remarkable features of present-day life is the self-consciousness of our top political figures about their places in history.

Nowadays our statesmen generally begin making things easy for the historian even before they have laid down the robes of office. A considerable time before he died, Franklin D. Roosevelt was busy helping along the project for the memorial library that now houses his official and private papers.

Friends already are raising funds for a similar library in Grandview, Mo., for President Truman's documents. But Mr. Truman couldn't wait for that project to get going. He permitted publication in 1952 of a book that reveals a lot of his private papers. In these last days in the White House, he's concentrating on setting the historians aright.

And for more than a decade, others have been galloping into print with their memoirs at the earliest possible moment.

All this is very thoughtful of these gentlemen. But one may be pardoned for suspecting that the objective historian may still find quite a lot of work cut out for him in evaluating their respective places in history.

At last the holiday interlude is over. And we wonder how many of us will require the full 51 weeks to rest up for the next one.

EXIT SANTA CLAUS

The bars have been erected against Santa Claus. Word comes from Eastern Europe that it is no longer permitted to attribute holiday gifts to him. Instead children are told that they come from Little Father Frost. He hails from Russia, and brings not so much presents as propaganda. To rub it in, St. Stephen's Day, which follows Christmas, is henceforth to be a work day in Hungary. This is solemnly proclaimed as the "realization of a wish long cherished by the workers."

Any one who believes that last statement will swallow anything.

THE MOROCCAN BASES

The importance of the Moroccan bases which the United States has been building is often overlooked in the confusing reports and charges which led to a reprimand of General Lewis A. Pick, Chief of Engineers, by the Secretary of War, Frank Pace, Jr.

Actually, three investigations have been made and three reports have been issued. Two of these reports are favorable; one is critical. The critical report, issued by the Senate Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee and signed by Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, made headlines because, if read carelessly, it indicated that hundreds of millions of dollars of the American taxpayers' money were being buried in the sands of the Sahara. The House Subcommittee on Military Public Works issued a report by its chairman, Representative John J. Riley, who gave evidence as to a remarkable job done under almost impossible conditions. The Secretary of War engaged Glenn W. Maxon, an engineer of reputation and experience, to make an independent survey of the bases, and Maxon's report is most favorable to the work that had been done under crash conditions.

From all three reports, it is possible to observe that whatever faults exist in this particular operation, they were due to high level decisions, to delayed negotiations with the French, and to Washington indecision and red-tape.

In spite of Mr. Pace's running to cover on the eve of a national election and his throwing the blame on a military officer who cannot answer back without being insubordinate, a tremendous lot has been accomplished in Morocco.

These bases, the largest in the world designed to make it possible for our planes to cover the whole of Europe, were ordered in a hurry to be ready in July, 1951, an apparent impossibility. Yet in 82 days, after ground was broken, the Army engineers had built a field that was usable. This is called "crash construction" under the circumstances of which costs are not taken into account, because the results are so important and pressing.

The contractors had to build not only airfields that would hold the largest planes already in existence, some projected and still on paper, but also five cities with all facilities necessary for a defensible airbase of primary magnitude.

No one questions the importance of these bases in the defense of the United States, should Soviet Russia attempt the conquest of Western Europe.

The issue is whether they have been wastefully built and if anyone is culpable. When ordered, the top policy makers believed that Russia intended war and rushed to the defenses. Rush jobs always are badly planned and cost lots of money. If any error is involved, it is in the rush factor. Also a factor is the usual military method of constantly changing plans without regard to a contractor's costs in such changes.

Mr. Riley made the point in his report:

". . . where one year before there had been nothing, there existed at two locations in Morocco at the time these hearings began in April 1952, usable air bases and there was in the process of establishment an important link in the defense of the West.

"As the investigation continued it was seen that all of this had been accomplished under incredible working conditions. There had been no advance plans or specifications, or even more important there were no master plans; construction and planning had to be done simultaneously. . . ."

Another problem that arose is also due to the characteristic Washington habit of making big appropriations and then tying them into a knot of red-tape. Of this Representative Riley said:

". . . the district engineer was forced to work under conditions of almost month-to-month bankruptcy. At hardly no time after heavy work had commenced was he supplied with sufficient funds to see further ahead than 30 days, although the lead time required for procurement of construction materials was several months long."

I have now read the reports available on this subject, as well as a good deal of the testimony at hearings and find that the work is progressing remarkably well. What I cannot understand is why Mr. Pace chose General Lewis A. Pick, Chief of Engineers, as a scapegoat when one was necessary. All he needed to do was to present the facts. He might even have taken credit for them.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

NEW OPERATION FOR RUPTURED DISC

Now that a ruptured disc is becoming more common and operation to remove the disc relieves pressure on the root or roots of the large sciatic nerve, many cases of low back pain and sciatica are being cured.

At first, only operation to remove the ruptured disc was used, then later operation to keep the spinal bones from growing too close together and again causing pressure was employed. A new method of surgical prevention of return of pain and disability has been tested and found to be a permanent cure in many cases.

In the Hawaii Medical Journal, Honolulu, Dr. R. B. Cloward reports his development of a new method in which he fuses the bodies of the vertebrae (spinal bone surrounding the spinal canal covering spinal cord). The aim of his operation is to keep the space between the bones the same as before the rupture of the disc because the disc keeps the bones far enough apart that there would be no pressure on nerves coming out from the spinal cord.

By fusing (making the bones grow together), leaving spaces for nerves to come out between the bones, complete relief from pain was obtained. Between the bones he inserted plugs of bone taking the place of the disc or discs removed. At first, he removed parts from the top of the hip bone as plugs to replace discs, but after the operation many patients complained of the pain where the bone had been removed from the hip bone, this pain being severe and lasting for months and years. After the first three months, therefore, Dr. Cloward used preserved bone from a bone bank for the grafts in a total of 87 vertebral body fusions. This prevented the pain and shortened the stay in hospital, the patient being able to leave hospital within ten days after operation.

This method of treatment has been used by Dr. Cloward in 250 cases since 1944. "The high percentage of permanent cures with no remaining disability to those treated before 1944" convinced him that this operation is the treatment of choice for ruptured vertebral disc. Further, the use of a Taylor brace to support the back temporarily is unnecessary after this operation. The objection to use of a brace worn too long is that it shortens and hardens the muscles of the lower back which support the spinal column.

Dr. Cloward emphasizes that his fusion operation has reduced the period of disability following operation and has lessened considerably the expense of the illness both in time off from work and in cost of hospitalization.

As there are thousands of cases of low back pain and sciatica due to ruptured disc, this new operation should mean much to those thus afflicted.

Old French School of Painting Revived

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—It is now possible to report the chief highlights of the Churchill-Eisenhower and the Churchill-Washington conversations; also some of the amusing sidelights—for no conversation with the British prime minister is without its whimsical moments.

During the New York talks when Churchill was urging Anglo-American cooperation of atomic energy, Eisenhower remarked that one of his problems was to keep the committees of Congress advised.

"Yes," grunted Churchill, "I've had considerable experience in advising your committees. My friend Mr. Roosevelt had trouble advising the committees of Congress. And my friend Mr. Truman had the same trouble. And when I have come over here I have had to advise them myself."

During the dinner at the British Embassy in Washington, the top statesmen of the Anglo-American world also spent some little time discussing such weighty matters as American and British slang, how certain colloquialisms got started, and seemed especially intrigued over the origin of one of Mr. Truman's pet phrases referring to a pain in a certain portion of the anatomy.

President Truman told Churchill not to be surprised if he showed up in London soon; and after the President played a couple of his favorite pieces on the Embassy's grand piano, the prime minister quipped: "I wonder if General Eisenhower can do as well?"

Meet With Stalin

The Churchill-Eisenhower talks in New York were inconclusive but extremely helpful for future guidance. Here is a summary of their main points:

Big Three Meeting—Churchill virtually paraphrased Governor Stevenson's advice that the solution to the Korean war was in Moscow and deftly suggested that Ike not take his eye off Moscow. He urged that Eisenhower think seriously about accepting Stalin's idea of a joint meeting, emphasized that he would want to be present at such a meeting, said that even if nothing came of it, the meeting would at least show we are not warmongers and that the west is not afraid to meet with Stalin. Eisenhower appeared sympathetic.

Korea—The prime minister objected vigorously to plans for using Chiang Kai-shek's troops in Korea and the idea of blockading the Chinese mainland. This was perhaps the only discordant note of the session. Churchill argued eloquently that this would spread the war to the Chinese mainland. Finally, Eisenhower told him he hadn't definitely decided what to do.

Eisenhower also said he hadn't made up his mind what should be done about a new offensive in Korea, though it is under consideration. He was convinced that some new strategy must be developed in a hurry to end the stalemate, agreed to talk more conclusively after he became President. No new offensive, he promised, would be undertaken without prior consultation. Details of a proposed offensive were discussed, but cannot be revealed here.

Far East—Churchill expressed concern over the economic threat of Japan, said Japanese cheap labor might knock the United Kingdom out of world markets, warned that England might need stronger barriers against both Japan and Germany. If help was forthcoming on this, Churchill hinted that England would be more helpful in defending Europe. He seemed miffed that Truman hadn't worked out a deal with the British Labor government to include England in "ANGUS," the Australia, New Zealand, U. S. A. Pact for defense of the Far East, and proposed that Britain be admitted, together with France and perhaps India or Indonesia.

Atom Bomb—The Prime Minister detailed the large amount of money England recently spent developing atomic energy, argued that it was sensless for the free world to drain its resources by such duplication, emphasized the importance of exchanging atomic information. On this point Eisenhower is bound by law not to exchange information with any other country, so could only promise to examine the entire matter with Congress.

Middle East—Churchill put great emphasis on cooperation in this delicate area, especially Iran. A compromise for the arbitration of the Iranian Oil dispute, more acceptable to the British, is being negotiated secretely in London; so part of the urgency of this problem was eased. Churchill suggested that U. S. troops patrol the Suez Canal along with the British.

Acheson's Last Plea

European Defense—During most of the New York talks Churchill was the eloquent pleader, Eisenhower the listener. But in Washington, Dean Acheson reversed this and staged one of his most eloquent and perhaps last appeal as secretary of state.

Acheson, who is the father of the North Atlantic Defense Pact, took a hurried trip to Europe last spring when it looked as if France and Germany might not sign the unified European army treaty. Thanks largely to his daring mission plus Acheson eloquence, the pact was rescued. But since then, changing governments in France together with presidential elections here have sent NATO goals downward and put the unified European army in serious jeopardy.

Acheson, therefore, urged Churchill to assume new and vigorous leadership on the continent. Reminding him that the transition vacuum between the Truman and Eisenhower administrations could be dangerous, he implored Churchill to give NATO guidance, inspiration, and encouragement.

Churchill, he strongly hinted, holds within the palm of his hand the opportunity to turn Europe toward eventual war or toward permanent peace. Without putting it in such blunt language, he suggested that the aging prime minister not be stubborn about British oil investments in Iran or about the Egyptian Sudan which Churchill still remembers as part of a glorious empire when he was a young war correspondent accompanying his majesty's troops on their conquest of the upper Nile.

As an attorney, Acheson has made many an eloquent plea before the courts. But never has he made one with more conviction than to Churchill during his last days as secretary of state.

Acheson Has Served, for Practical Purposes, as President for Harry S. Truman

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—The eyes of the nation might well have been focused on two men this week—neither of them a President or President-elect but each of them so influential that the course of history has been materially affected and will be affected by their acts.

One was Secretary of State Dean Acheson saying his farewells, and the other was John Foster Dulles being quizzed by a Senate committee, which then voted unanimously to recommend to the Senate next Tuesday confirmation of his appointment. Mr. Dulles' outline of proposed foreign policy was as refreshing as it was realistic.

For all practical purposes, Dean Acheson has been President of the United States during the critical period of the Truman administration. Mr. Truman was incapable himself of formulating foreign policies and depended almost entirely on the judgment and advice of Dean Acheson. The so-called Truman Doctrine originated with Dean Acheson, and so did the so-called Marshall Plan, to which must be added the fact that a group of imaginative planners in the Department of State wrote the basic memoranda on which the ultimate policies were based.

Relations between President Truman and Dean Acheson have been intimate. The secretary of state was always at the Union Station or the airport to meet Mr. Truman when he was coming or going. And Mr. Truman had such an unbounded admiration for his secretary of state that he wouldn't listen to criticism of foreign policies. He used to say that the critics weren't "fit to black the boots of Acheson."

But an appraisal of the Acheson policies and of his attitude while in public office will leave the historian with a query as to whether the course of history might have been different, especially in the Far East and Korea, if Mr. Truman had responded to popular demand and changed the secretary of state as he did other cabinet officers who came under criticism.

"The Washington Post," which has more often than not supported Mr. Acheson's policies, had a rather interesting analysis of the secretary of state in an editorial on Thursday. After praising him for some of his policies, the "Post" spoke of him as having a mind "superbly equipped for analysis and finely trained for argument and negotiation," but added, "it is a mind short of conceptions." The editorial says further:

"No secretary of state in living memory has commanded more respect on the part of his colleagues for intellect and adherence to principle, yet no secretary can have left the department so demoralized. The reason is clear. At the onset of his career as secretary of state he made an error of the heart, and this proceeded, with expert GOP aid and lack of much fighting back, to engulf the department. The error, of course, was Mr. Acheson's compassionate reference to Alger Hiss. From that time on, though he refused to believe it, he was damned as a public official. Congress sought to starve him out. It refused to give the department functions that orderly administration required of it. Congress, as a cabinet member once said, would have stripped the State Department of everything but its obloquy."

But the fact is that Secretary Acheson lost public favor because he bungled China policy. He kept on saying that the nation must go through endless years of tension waiting for the Russians to get over their "cold war" tactics and become peaceful. He intervened to prevent maximum power from being used to end the Korean war when General MacArthur recommended it, and he publicly announced a willingness to end the Korean war by negotiating a truce at the 38th Parallel. It was a surrender of the objective of the war itself—to defeat the enemy.

In contrast, John Foster Dulles, who is to be the new secretary of state, while arguing also against a "general war," told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that there are things that can be done to break up the China-Moscow alliance. He promised "cold war" policies that are "strong but not reckless and which will end the peril without provoking a dying spasm of total violence."

Mr. Dulles also lamented the slipping away of European unity, which he feels at the moment is in a process of "disintegration, not integration." He mentioned new crises in the Middle East and in Indo-China and Korea. He referred to the dangers in Central and South America, where communistic activity has been stepped up recently, and said: "If we don't look out, we'll wake up some morning and read in the newspapers that the same thing has happened in Central and South America as happened in China in 1949. The time to deal with the situation is now, before it's too late."

Most important of all was Mr. Dulles' comprehensive statement about the "liberation" of enslaved peoples, which he said must have high priority in the new administration. He said again, as he did during the campaign, that there are many methods available short of war and without the need for "premature" revolts in the satellite states that would be crushed in bloody violence.

Lots of people have been saying all this is impossible—that there are no ways but the Truman-Acheson way of doing things. Mr. Dulles says that those who say nothing can be done along the line of the "liberation" crusade and to break up Russia's power without going to war "just don't know what they're talking about."

So out goes a secretary of state who, in effect, says nothing can be done, and in comes one who has caught the spirit of the election landslide which says something can and must be done. It's a significant contrast.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The New York Journal-American published the other day a "three-page historical evaluation of America's presidents" by Prof. Allan Nevins, described as a "noted historian, author and editor." A historian is a memorizer who may or may not keep the faith by telling the truth or slanting the story of mankind to serve some ulterior ism after the manner of the political plugs which have come to serve as counterfeit for literary criticism in the Herald Tribune and the New York Times. This Nevins had the gall to rate Herbert Hoover as "mediocre," just a grade above "poor" in his scale, and Franklin D. Roosevelt as "excellent," just below the rating he gave Washington and Lincoln.

I hold this man to be intellectually warped because, granting that he actually does think by those values, he convicts himself of commending the most corrupt president in our history, a swindler who hoisted his two deadbeat sons on a wide range of vulnerable suckers, permitted his rapacious wife and daughter to harvest fortunes of highly questionable white graft, planted about 30 of his ne'er-do-well, no-good kinnery on the public payrolls, loaded the federal bureaucracy with immigrant spies and traitorous native adherents of a hostile power, degraded the ideal of American public service to a depth never before plumbed by any American, and drew a blood bath which now awaits a generation which knows the scoundrel only by reputation.

Whether he is a historian or just a propagandist, Nevins plainly is too intelligent not to know that Roosevelt's long presidency marked the infestation of our government by a horde of liars and sophists and the official, organized repudiation of patriotism and honor. He was so crooked that he held out for a bribe of a quarter of a million as his price for running for governor of New York in 1928, a fact admitted piecemeal, under pressure of proof, by his graceless wife who was in on the deal with John J. Raskob. He was so mean in his greed that he even laid off the old family hostlers at Hyde Park on the pretense that they were closing out the stable and then, by Presidential order, assigned enlisted cavalry soldiers to do their work at public expense.

I challenge any devotee of the Roosevelt theology to defend this faker against any of the charges of rascality that have been proven against him, including the crime of brain-picking in his theft of a magazine piece about the old Mauretania, an offense for which Nevins, in his pretense to the title of "author," should despise Roosevelt beyond forgiveness.

In writing these reminders it is not that I seize on Nevins' affront to morals as a mere pretext to review Roosevelt's unerring instinct for the depraved alternative to decent conduct. If Nevins had merely smeared Hoover with whatever mendacity, I would have ignored that as a typical cynicism of a type of prof who, fortunately, is getting caught up with at belated last. But we all have observed the beginning of a new campaign to regild the spurious glory of a betrayer without a rival in modern history and, at the same time, exonerate a scheming reflict who flaunts her mournful weeds but seldom sought his company if there was a check to be had for a speech in Syracuse or Boston.

Kindergarten Survey Made on New Children

New Paltz, Jan. 15—The PFO kindergarten survey committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Albert Kerr, is helping to conduct a survey to ascertain the number of children who will attend the Campus school kindergarten next September. All children in School District No. 1 who will be five years old on or before Dec. 1, 1953, are eligible to attend. Questionaires are being sent to all parents of children in this age group. The Campus school is the only one in the district offering a kindergarten program.

The names of parents who will receive the questionnaires have been taken from the school census lists. Persons who have recently moved to this district or know of someone who has and is not likely to be on the census list, they are asked to mail or telephone the names and addresses to the Kindergarten Survey Committee, Campus Elementary School, New Paltz.

Parents of six-year-olds who have not attended the kindergarten but are planning to attend the first grade in the Campus school are also requested to notify this committee. This survey does not take the place of the registration of all new students required in the spring.

Parents to Get Reports

New Paltz, Jan. 15—During February parents will receive the first of two yearly reports concerning their child's development and progress in the school. Albany, Jan. 16 (AP)—A record 158,502 New York drivers had their licenses revoked or suspended in 1952.

'Curtain at 8:40' Film Wednesday, January 21

Never Take No for an Answer, is the title of the film attraction at the "Curtain at 8:40" performance on Wednesday, January 21 at the Kingston Theatre.

This film is a very simple, heartwarming and wonderfully done account of the beautiful faith of a little Catholic orphan boy in the benevolence of St. Francis of Assisi, patron saint of animals, and of the Pope. When his donkey, his sole means of support becomes ill, the boy tries to take the donkey inside the church to the altar of St. Francis in the belief St. Francis will cure the animal. He then appeals directly to the Pope for permission and through an almost miraculous chain of events secures his audience with the Pope. The boy is one of the most appealing youngsters ever shown on the screen. The film was made entirely in Italy and the story was written by Paul Gallico.

Meeting Is Slated On Reading Plans

New Paltz, Jan. 15 — Why doesn't the Campus School teach reading to five-year-olds? Are phonetics taught there? Should children read comics? Do the students learn sound study habits? Do children spell as well today as they did in years past?

Persons who ever had questions like these or any others about the reading program at the Campus School, may hear them answered by a specialist in the field, Dr. George Bond, at the all-school parents meeting, Wednesday, Jan. 21, at 8 p. m., in the music room.

Dr. Bond, director of the recently-established reading clinic, will discuss modern methods for teaching reading at all grade levels, and explain what results can be expected. Prior to joining the New Paltz faculty in September 1952, he served for four years as lecturer and assistant to the director of the Reading Clinic at the University of Pennsylvania, one of the leading clinics in the country.

Lee Keator has charge of arrangements for the meeting which will be held under the auspices of the Parent Faculty Organization.

Kindergarten Survey Made on New Children

New Paltz, Jan. 15—The PFO kindergarten survey committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Albert Kerr, is helping to conduct a survey to ascertain the number of children who will attend the Campus school kindergarten next September. All children in School District No. 1 who will be five years old on or before Dec. 1, 1953, are eligible to attend. Questionaires are being sent to all parents of children in this age group. The Campus school is the only one in the district offering a kindergarten program.

The names of parents who will receive the questionnaires have been taken from the school census lists. Persons who have recently moved to this district or know of someone who has and is not likely to be on the census list, they are asked to mail or telephone the names and addresses to the Kindergarten Survey Committee, Campus Elementary School, New Paltz.

Parents of six-year-olds who have not attended the kindergarten but are planning to attend the first grade in the Campus school are also requested to notify this committee. This survey does not take the place of the registration of all new students required in the spring.

Parents to Get Reports

New Paltz, Jan. 15—During February parents will receive the first of two yearly reports concerning their child's development and progress in the school. The report will describe more than academic achievement—it will tell how the child is developing in his relations with others in his group, where his specific interests lie, what his weaknesses are and the plans for overcoming them. The report will encourage the parent to meet with the teacher for further discussion.

Names Sons After Presidents

Abraham Enloe, of Hazlewood, N. C., was named for a President of the United States—Abraham Lincoln—and he rather liked the idea.

He named his seven sons in the same manner. They are Woodrow, Washington, Monroe, Coolilge, Harding, Herbert, and Roosevelt Enloe. His three daughters and two granddaughters are named for President's wives.

An elderly couple from a rural community were fascinated by the window display along the main city street. For a long time they stood watching a demonstrator place a bunch of laundry in a washing matchine with the resultant swirling and splashing of water. "Well," said the old lady at last, "if that's television, they can have it."

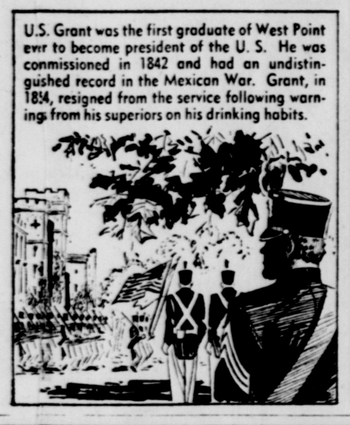
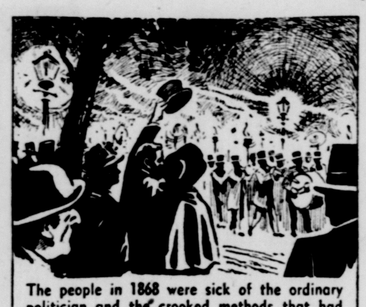
GENERALS WHO BECAME PRESIDENT—5

By RAY ELLIS and ED KUDLATY

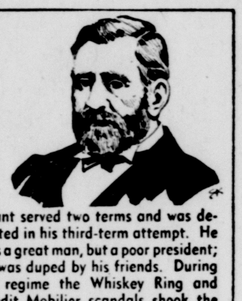


U.S. Grant was the first graduate of West Point ever to become president of the U. S. He was commissioned in 1842 and had an undistinguished record in the Mexican War. Grant, in 1854, resigned from the service following warnings from his superiors on his drinking habits.

He was down and out when the Civil War started. After brilliant victories at Shiloh and Vicksburg he became the most heroic figure in America. On April 9, 1865, Grant climaxed his military career when General Lee surrendered at Appomattox, ending the conflict that had threatened to dissolve the nation.



The people in 1868 were sick of the ordinary politician and the crooked methods that had dominated the country during the Johnson administration. Grant, the young military hero, appealed to their imagination and was elected impressively over the Democratic nominee Horatio Seymour.



Grant served two terms and was defeated in his third-term attempt. He was a great man, but a poor president; he was duped by his friends. During his regime the Whiskey Ring and Credit Mobilier scandals shook the nation. He did settle the Alabama claims against England, was on record for civil service reform and made the first attempt to treat the Indians in a humane manner.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., Jan. 16—I freely admit that a great change is taking place in the government of this country. Not only did the country give Eisenhower a "landslide" victory last November; but Eisenhower is now giving "Big Business" a "landslide" stock market in return.

The appointment of so many successful businessmen to high offices has made them and their friends very bullish. These friends have passed along the word to other friends, who have bought stocks at an unprecedented rate. Naturally, stock prices have been going up and will continue to climb as long as this buying exists.

Have these Republicans bought for investment or to sell again soon at a profit? Frankly, I do not know, but my guess is the latter. If so, when these friends of the big shots begin to sell, who will be the buyers? A stock market can tumble from present prices as fast as it can climb. After Hoover's election in 1928 the Industrial Average went up 100 points within 10 months, but then fell back over 100 points in only 1 month!

Will History Repeat Itself?

Stocks rallied again during the first part of 1930, but in April began an almost steady decline until, in 1932, they had fallen a total of 300 points from the 1929 peak! This means that the Industrial Averages, which were selling above 350 after Hoover had been in office 6 months, sold at only 50 the fourth year of his term.

This does not mean that such a decline can now happen again, primarily because very few stocks are held on margin today. Technically, the stock market is now in a sound position, but this is not the reason people are buying stocks today. The reason is that they believe that "Big Business" has at last taken back the control of our country. But if this is true (which I doubt) it is no reason to buy stocks for speculation. Hoover selected as his Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon—one of American's richest and brainiest men. "Big Business" controlled the Hoover Administration.

The sad truth is that the present period of prosperity has not been built upon honest work and savings. It has been built on borrowed money, much of which has been spent on useless war. In 1914, when World War 1 started, our National Debt was less than 2 billion dollars. Today it is over 250 billion dollars.

If the Republicans will continue the Truman finance, they probably can keep the balloon inflated a few years more. If, however, they start to operate in an honest way—as did President Hoover and Andrew Mellon—by reducing the debt, discharging government employes and urging economy, stocks will surely have a bad fall.

Making Money in the Stock Market

Successful brokers are, by nature, bullish. They must try to get you to buy stocks. I, however, suggest you ask your broker these two simple questions:

Are stocks cheap today?

Will they some day sell 100 points below present quotations?

Most brokers are honest, even when wearing rosy glasses. Get a "Yes" or "No" answer—then use your judgment.

It is entirely possible that the stock market will go higher; but this possibility does not interest me. Based on all previous history, I know stocks will some day sell 100, or perhaps 200, points lower. I'm putting my hard-earned savings in the bank awaiting such a time. What money I have made has been through Patience. Who was it said: "Patient Waiters are Never Losers."?

Raises Interest Rates

New York, Jan. 16 (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board has raised its interest rates on loans to banks, and financial circles in Wall street predicted today the banks will soon pass on the increase directly to private business. The board action yesterday lifted the interest cost for bank borrowings to 2 per cent from the 1¾ per cent level which has prevailed since August, 1950. This is the so-called rediscount rate—a method by which the nation's banks borrow funds from the board in order to lend it to private enterprise. Several banking executives said the action would spur banks to boost interest rates to business by the same amount.

As Pegler Sees It

record of barnstorming, lying (see her malicious defamation of Herbert Hoover in the bonus riot passage in her book), and patronage of Communists would have been relegated to her proper abyss. But there is a move afoot to unstink a notorious regime by sheer audacity.

I find no statement in Nevins' eulogy of Roosevelt which is not instantly refuted by the common knowledge of honest men. He recalls, for example, that the tyrannies of Hitler and the Japanese war lords were born of the "depression," which is not true at all. Roosevelt then "approached this series of challenges with an imagination a confidence and a resourcefulness that earned for him a high place among the statesmen of modern times." This glossary of compliments is nothing more than one man's curbstone adulation of a personal hero. The true historian would have felt obliged, however, to say that Roosevelt mocked the Constitution which he had sworn to uphold, tried to pack the courts, repudiated the gold obligation to make a quick profit for his schemes and sent American sailors to death in undeclared war as guerrilla allies of the British fleet.

After a few more arbitrary personal tributes, Nevins concludes that Roosevelt was an "excellent" president, without the slightest reference to the tragedies of Yalta and Katyn, the growth of sexual malpractice in the State Department under a Roosevelt family protege whose reputation reeks even without a word of publicity, the record of family racketeering colored with extortion which makes Grant's administration seem prim, and the total effect of moral and financial bankruptcy which Truman eagerly inherited as an eager and appropriate steward.

Harry Elmer Barnes, another historian, has been moaning low in dark obscurity ever since Potsdam against colleagues who exalt "personality" and "reputation" at the expense of honor and all else admirable. He calls himself a "revisionist" and revision must come and with it the demolition of the Nevinses and their paltry works.

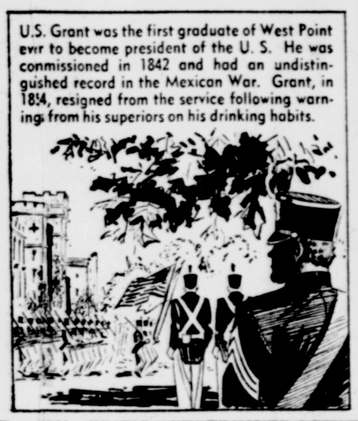
GENERALS WHO BECAME PRESIDENT—5

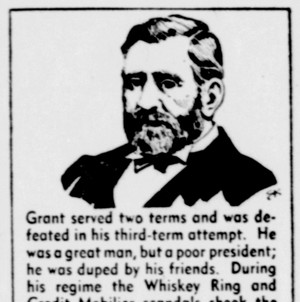
By RAY ELLIS and ED KUDLATY



U.S. Grant was the first graduate of West Point ever to become president of the U. S. He was commissioned in 1842 and had an undistinguished record in the Mexican War. Grant, in 1854, resigned from the service following warnings from his superiors on his drinking habits.

He was down and out when the Civil War started. After brilliant victories at Shiloh and Vicksburg he became the most heroic figure in America. On April 9, 1865, Grant climaxed his military career when General Lee surrendered at Appomattox, ending the conflict that had threatened to dissolve the nation.

The people in 1868 were sick of the ordinary politician and the crooked methods that had dominated the country during the Johnson administration. Grant, the young military hero, appealed to their imagination and was elected impressively over the Democratic nominee Horatio Seymour.



Grant served two terms and was defeated in his third-term attempt. He was a great man, but a poor president; he was duped by his friends. During his regime the Whiskey Ring and Credit Mobilier scandals shook the nation. He did settle the Alabama claims against England, was on record for civil service reform and made the first attempt to treat the Indians in a humane manner.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., Jan. 16—I freely admit that a great change is taking place in the government of this country. Not only did the country give Eisenhower a "landslide" victory last November; but Eisenhover is now giving "Big Busines" a "landslide" stock market in return.

The appointment of so many successful businessmen to high offices has made them and their friends very bullish. These friends have passed along the word to other friends, who have bought stocks at an unprecedented rate. Naturally, stock prices have been going up and will continue to climb as long as this buying exists.

Have these Republicans bought for investment or to sell again soon at a profit? Frankly, I do not know but my guess is the latter. If so, when these friends of the big slots begin to sell, who will be the buyers? A stock market can tumble from present prices as fast as it can climb. After Hoover's election in 1928 the Industrial Average went up 100 points within 10 months, but then fell back over 100 points in only 1 month!

Will History Repeat Itself?

Stocks rallied again during the first part of 1930, but in April began an almost steady decline until, in 1932, they had fallen a total of 300 points from the 1929 peak! This means that the Industrial Averages, which were selling above 350 after Hoover had been in office 6 months, sold at only 50 the fourth year of his term.

This does not mean that such a decline can now happen again, primarily because very few stocks are held on margin today. Technically, the stock market is now in a sound position, but this is not the reason people are buying stocks today. The reason is that they believe that "Big Business" has at last taken back the control of our country. But if this is true (which I doubt) it is no reason to buy stocks for speculation. Hoover selected as his Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon—one of American's richest and brainiest men. "Big Business" controlled the Hoover Administration.

The sad truth is that the present period of prosperity has not been built upon honest work and savings. It has been built on borrowed money, much of which has been spent on useless war. In 1914, when World War 1 started, our National Debt was less than 2 billion dollars. Today it is over 250 billion dollars.

If the Republicans will continue the Truman finance, they probably can keep the balloon inflated a few years more. If, however, they start to operate in an honest way—as did President Hoover and Andrew Mellon—by reducing the debt, discharging government employes and urging economy, stocks will surely have a bad fall.

Making Money in the Stock Market

Successful brokers are, by nature, bullish. They must try to get you to buy stocks. I, however, suggest you ask your broker these two simple questions:

Are stocks cheap today?

Will they some day sell 100 points below present quotations?

Most brokers are honest, even when wearing rosy glasses. Get a "Yes" or "No" answer—then use your judgment.

It is entirely possible that the stock market will go higher; but this possibility does not interest me. Based on all previous history, I know stocks will some day sell 100, or perhaps 200, points lower. I'm putting my hard-earned savings in the bank awaiting such a time. What money I have made has been through Patience. Who was it said: "Patient Waiters are Never Losers."?

Reds Taking Over Banks

Hong Kong (AP)—Red China newspaper reports indicate a nationwide move to put all private banks under direct government control. The reports say that the private banks have been combined and placed under a bureau supervised by the official Peoples Bank.

Raises Interest Rates

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board has raised its interest rates on loans to banks, and financial circles in Wall street predicted today the banks will soon pass on the increase directly to private business. The board action yesterday lifted the interest cost for bank borrowings to 2 per cent from the 1¾ per cent level which has prevailed since August, 1950. This is the so-called rediscount rate—a method by which the nation's banks borrow funds from the board in order to lend it to private enterprise. Several banking executives said the action would spur banks to boost interest rates to business by the same amount.

record of barnstorming, lying (see her malicious defamation of Herbert Hoover in the bonus riot passage in her book), and patronage of Communists would have been relegated to her proper abyss. But there is a move afoot to unstink a notorious regime by sheer audacity.

I find no statement in Nevins' eulogy of Roosevelt which is not instantly refuted by the common knowledge of honest men. He recalls, for example, that the tyrannies of Hitler and the Japanese war lords were born of the "depression," which is not true at all. Roosevelt then "approached this series of challenges with an imagination a confidence and a resourcefulness that earned for him a high place among the statesmen of modern times." This glossary of compliments is nothing more than one man's curbstone adulation of a personal hero. The true historian would have felt obliged, however, to say that Roosevelt mocked the Constitution which he had sworn to uphold, tried to pack the courts, repudiated the gold obligation to make a quick profit for his schemes and sent American sailors to death in undeclared war as guerrilla allies of the British fleet.

After a few more arbitrary personal tributes, Nevins concludes that Roosevelt was an "excellent" president, without the slightest reference to the tragedies of Yalta and Katyn, the growth of sexual malpractice in the State Department under a Roosevelt family protege whose reputation reeks even without a word of publicity, the record of family racketeering colored with extortion which makes Grant's administration seem prim, and the total effect of moral and financial bankruptcy which Truman eagerly inherited as an eager and appropriate steward.

Harry Elmer Barnes, another historian, has been moaning low in dark obscurity ever since Potsdam against colleagues who exalt "personality" and "reputation" at the expense of honor and all else admirable. He calls himself a "revisionist" and revision must come and with it the demolition of the Nevinses and their paltry works.

Hat Conscious First Lady in White House Accelerates U. S. Millinery Industry

By DOROTHY ROE
(AP Women's Editor)

Having a hat-conscious first lady in the White House is like money in the bank to the U. S. millinery industry.

Wholesalers Jubilant

The New York wholesale millinery district which turns out the bulk of the millinery bought by the average American woman, is jubilant over reports of Mamie Eisenhower's enthusiasm over hats.

Things have not always been so good for the milliners, wholesale or custom. There was a time in the '30's when debutante Brenda Frazier nearly wrecked the industry by starting a hatless fad that swept the country.

That time a bright designer, Lilly Dache, saved the day by getting Brenda into a "half-hat," which let her long tresses flow and provided work for the milliners.

The hatless threat has recurred from time to time when some fashion celebrity happened to be caught with her hat off and a photographer present, and other women decided it was chic to follow the leader.

Even the clothes conscious Duchess of Winsdor has been little help to the millinery industry, clinging to her beanies through thick and thin. Those little cap-hats are so small they sometimes don't show at all.

First Lady Adores Hats

But now we are about to have a first lady who adores hats—and the more the merrier.

Mrs. Eisenhower took 50 hats along on the campaign train. She has ordered a dozen new ones from one New York milliner alone to take to the White House as a starter for spring.

Moreover, the sprightly Mamie has a distinct flair for wearing her hats well. She selects small, face-framing shapes that look well with her distinctive bangs, and employs a skillful sense of color in matching and contrasting chapeaux and costumes.

A new hat to Mrs. Eisenhower is as good as a spring tonic—a trait common to many women. She perks up at once after prescribing a new bonnet for herself—and two are even better.

Reports on her selections of inaugural costumes caused an uproar in the dress industry that verged on hysteria, with competing fashion editors each trying to get a "beat" on the story.

What Mamie wears is going to affect the national economy in no small way.

Mrs. Ernest Ryan Is Named YW Director

She was graduated from Kingston High School, and from Ithaca College where she majored in physical education. Before her marriage, she was a member of the teaching staffs at Goshen and Kingston High Schools.

Miss Louise Mertz Becomes Bride of Irving H. Clapp

Miss Louise Henrietta Mertz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mertz of New Paltz, became the bride of Irving Houghton Clapp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Clapp of Wappingers Falls, at 2 p. m. Sunday, Jan. 11, in the Reformed Church, New Paltz. The Rev. Gerret J. Wullschleger performed the ceremony. A reception was held in the social rooms of the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace and satin with a fitted bodice of lace over satin, wing collar and finger tip lace sleeves. Her full skirt of satin ended in a cathedral train. She wore a finger tip veil of tulle, attached to a Juliet cap trimmed with seed pearls. The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white roses, stephanotis and ivy centered with a white orchid which she later wore as a corsage.

Miss Jill M. Miller of New Paltz, a friend of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a wine colored ballerina length dress, with a strapless velvet bodice and velvet jacket with buoffant nylon tulle skirt over underskirts of nylon net and taffeta. Local Marines Land U. S. Marine Band For Fall Concert

True to their reputation, the Marines have scored another success. Since June 1951, the local Marine Corps League, through its past Commandant, Albert J. Melville, has been exerting every effort to bring to the city, the United States Marine Band. It was announced today by Peter J. Mancuso, commandant, that success has been achieved and the famous band will be in Kingston during the latter part of September.

George Quaal, band representative, will confer next month, with local officials of the Marine Corps League, when details for the concert will be discussed.

Hat Conscious First Lady in White House Accelerates U. S. Millinery Industry

By DOROTHY ROE
(AP Women's Editor)

Having a hat-conscious first lady in the White House is like money in the bank to the U. S. millinery industry.

Wholesalers Jubilant

The New York wholesale millinery district which turns out the bulk of the millinery bought by the average American woman, is jubilant over reports of Mamie Eisenhower's enthusiasm over hats.

Things have not always been so good for the milliners, wholesale or custom. There was a time in the '30's when debutante Brenda Frazier nearly wrecked the industry by starting a hatless fad that swept the country.

That time a bright designer, Lilly Dache, saved the day by getting Brenda into a "half-hat," which let her long tresses flow and provided work for the milliners.

The hatless threat has recurred from time to time when some fashion celebrity happened to be caught with her hat off and a photographer present, and other women decided it was chic to follow the leader.

Even the clothes conscious Duchess of Winsdor has been little help to the millinery industry, clinging to her beanies through thick and thin. Those little caphats are so small they sometimes don't show at all.

First Lady Adores Hats

But now we are about to have a first lady who adores hats—and the more the merrier.

Mrs. Eisenhower took 50 hats along on the campaign train. She has ordered a dozen new ones from one New York milliner alone to take to the White House as a starter for spring.

Moreover, the sprightly Mamie has a distinct flair for wearing her hats well. She selects small, face-framing shapes that look well with her distinctive bangs, and employs a skillful sense of color in matching and contrasting chapeaux and costumes.

A new hat to Mrs. Eisenhower is as good as a spring tonic—a trait common to many women. She perks up at once after prescribing a new bonnet for herself—and two are even better.

Reports on her selections of inaugural costumes caused an uproar in the dress industry that verged on hysteria, with competing fashion editors each trying to get a "beat" on the story.

What Mamie wears is going to affect the national economy in no small way.

Delegates in addition to Davis were Nicholas Kolk of Goshen and John Gerow of Washingtonville, who is state director for the club. Davis served as alternate for Daniel Barnhart of Stone Ridge, club president.

Miss Hilda Sauer, Kyserike, last year's National Reserve 4-H Champion girl, also attended the convention, which was held Jan. 12 and 13 at the Hotel Arlington.

Davis reported the USO Club outrated the large Eastern New York Holstein Club that covers the eastern side of the Hudson from Columbia county through Long Island.

Officers of the area club, in addition to President Barnhart, are John Winter of Winterton, vice president; Lloyd Peavey, Warwick, secretary-treasurer.

New Directors Named

Why We Say--

. . . Were actors

Someone who is called a vagabond today might be a wanderer with no fixed home. The word started as the name for actors who wandered throughout England putting on performances. Prior to the time of Shakespeare there were few established theatres and actors would put on performances wherever they could find an audience. The word is from the Latin "vagari" to wander.

Dutchess Killer Dies in Chair

Ossining, Jan. 16 (AP)—Joseph L. Paonessa, convicted slayer of a 14-year-old schoolboy, died in Sing Sing's electric chair last night in frightened silence.

Paonessa, 41, who still maintained throughout his last day of life that the crime was masterminded by an evil companion later adjudged insane, approached the chair with fear graven on his face.

Paonessa's mumbled prayers were his only utterances as he walked to the chair accompanied by the prison's Catholic chaplain, the Rev. Thomas J. Donovan.

Formerly an auto mechanic in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Paonessa was convicted in June, 1951, of slaying Robert Leonard.

He was charged with luring the boy into a secluded shack 15 miles north of Poughkeepsie and shooting him.

Paonessa said in his defense that he was compelled to kill the boy by Alfred K. Von Wolfersdorf, whom he described as his master in a two-man secret society.

The crime was committed, Paonessa said, while Von Wolfersdorf held a gun at his back saying, "shoot the boy or I'll kill you."

Von Wolfersdorf was a co-defendant in the case but was adjudged insane and committed to Matteawan State Hospital for the criminal insane.

To Take on Permanency

Tokyo, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Chinese Communist regime announced today it will drop its revolutionary swaddling clothes this year and take on the full garments of a permanent centralized government. Peiping radio said the powerful Central Council, headed by Chairman Mao Tze-tung had decided after three years of revolutionary rule to convene an all-China people's congress. It will adopt a new constitution, ratify a five-year plan and elect a Russian-style central governing body.

Two Persons Freed From Prison Life

Albany, Jan. 16 (AP) — Prison gates are open for a robber suffering from an incurable disease and for a Japanese house servant who wrote a cook book while under life sentence for murder.

Gov. Dewey yesterday freed Ferdinand Dacunto, 40, who has served almost half of a 40-year term for robbery, and Gentaro Akiyama, 60, imprisoned nearly 21 years ago for stabbing his employer to death.

The governor said Dacunto was suffering from multiple sclerosis and could receive better treatment for the incurable nervous disease outside of prison.

Akiyama was freed for deportation to his native Japan, Dewey said.

Akiyama was in Attica prison. Dacunto was in Sing Sing.

Dacunto was sentenced June 6, 1934, after conviction on a first-degree robbery charge in New York county. He would have been eligible for parole in October, 1961.

Sentenced in 1932

Akiyama was sentenced to death March 3, 1932, but the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, then governor, commuted the sentence Dec. 9, 1932. Akiyama was convicted in Dutchess county of stabbing his employer, J. William Schatz, during a struggle after Akiyama allegedly had attacked a man and woman as they slept.

Dewey said that if Akiyama should re-enter the United States, he would go back to prison for life.

Akiyama's cook book reportedly had wide circulation in his homeland. He has two children in Japan.

Dewey said Dacunto's brother and sister had expressed willingness to take care of him and pay for his treatment.

Entomologist Tells Of Pest Control

Rochester, Jan. 16 (AP)—Fruit and vegetable growers can combat insect resistance to poisons by varying the type of poisons used from year to year, according to a state entomologist.

Paul J. Chapman, professor entomology at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station, Geneva, told the State Horticultural Society's 98th meeting yesterday:

"Insecticide resistance is perhaps the greatest single problem facing us in pest control. New York growers generally are not confronted with any immediate difficulties."

He said because some species of insects produce several generations in one season and gradually build up a type of immunity to common poisons, rotation of the kind of poison used could help combat the resistance.

John A. Goodrich, of Burt, Niagara county, was elected president of the society. He succeeds James R. Clarke of Wilton, Ulster county. Gerald Maier, Newburgh, was named vice president and Daniel Dairymple, Lockport, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Ancient healing rites often attempted to transfer disease from a man to a tree.

of five Ford sedans, one 1950, two 1951, two 1952, and two 1952 Harley Davidson motorcycles. The 1950 and 1951 cars should be replaced by new cars "as soon as possible," he said, because "these cars run on an average of 16 to 24 hours per day, and we are beginning to have considerable trouble with them."

The department's 40-hour work week schedule, the chief said, "will not go into effect until the secretary to the civil service commissioners furnishes the police commissioners an eligible list for patrolmen so 15 appointments can be made." The civil service examination is scheduled for Feb. 14.

The force, at present, he said, when at full quota consists of 39 men, but is now two men short. During the year, he said, "we had the misfortune to lose two of our officers" Harry Martin and Walter VanSteenburgh by death.

The chief revealed that "a number of traffic suggestions will be made to the traffic control committee of the Common Council, in reference to no-parking areas, one-way streets, traffic lights, and the changing of some parking meters from one section of the city to another."

The report noted that on last Dec. 18 Sgt. William Messing was promoted to lieutenant, Officer Grover Hoffay was promoted to sergeant, Frank Sammons to detective and Sheldon O'Rourke was appointed patrolman.

The department now has three lieutenants, four sergeants, and two detectives, four women and one man (specials) on school traffic, and one police matron. Drs. Peter D. Corsones, Chester VanGaasbeek, and Alfred W. Harder are listed as police surgeons.

The chief thanked the board of police commissioners, members of the force, the radio and newspapers, and all other organizations "for the cooperation given in the past year."

The report was titled the 61st annual for the department.

Manhole Cover Lost

Police were notified at 9 a. m. yesterday that a manhole cover had been taken from Stuyvesant street at a point near Broadway. Officers Harold Bowers and Sheldon O'Rourke investigated and reported they were unable to find it. The public works department was notified and placed a tripod and light over the danger spot.

Highmount Ski Conditions

The following conditions were reported today at the Highmount Ski Center: One inch of snow on 8 to 15 inches hard base. The temperature was reported at 45 degrees with fair weather conditions prevailing.

Kiwanis Holds Its Installation

N. Jansen Fowler was installed as president of the Kingston Kiwanis Club at the club's regular meeting Thursday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Harold Galloway of Newburgh, Kiwanis lieutenant governor, was the installing officer.

Other officers installed were Hubert Hoderath and Herman C. Schwenk, vice presidents; Fred L. Van Deusen, treasurer, and H. Van Wyck Darrow, secretary; Raymond W. Garraghan, immediate past president and the three new directors, Dewcese DeWitt, Harold Keator and George Silkworth.

Terming the Kingston club's record for 1952 as "outstanding" among clubs of the division, Galloway reviewed the activities, including the club's work in vocation guidance, its scholarship program, Kiwanis Kapers, assistance to the Cerebral Palsy clinic, Key Club support, 4-H chicken project, interclub activity, its work with Kingston's 300th Anniversary Committee, and the club's annual clambake.

Investing Garraghan with the office of immediate past president, Galloway said it was a "wise provision" of the by-laws which requires the past president to continue in an official capacity for a year after his term expires, giving the club the benefit of his experience. In Kiwanis, the immediate past president is an ex officio member of the board of directors.

In accepting the office of president, Fowler noted that there are "many challenges to be met," and called upon members to "have confidence in the club and faith in the future."

February Milk Price For Metropolitan $5.27

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—The February price of fluid milk (Class 1-A) produced for the New York metropolitan milk marketing area will be $5.27 per hundredweight (46.5 quarts), it was announced yesterday by Market Administrator C. J. Blanford.

The price for January is 5.56 per hundredweight. In February, 1952, it was $5.81 per hundredweight.

Dairy farmers never are paid the Class 1-A price. Handlers pay that amount to the New York pool for the milk they use in that category. Dairy farmers are paid a uniform price which is determined by the uses made of all milk received at country plants approved for the New York marketing area.

The Class 1-A prices determined monthly by a formula which considers general economic conditions as shown in the index of wholesale commodity prices published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics; milk supply and demand factors, and seasonality.

Official Faces Loss

Binghamton, Jan. 16 (AP)—This could be a "paper loss." The town of Conklin yesterday pared 50 cents from Highway Superintendent John W. Baker's annual salary of $4,598.50. Town officials explained that the pay roll sheet used in bookkeeping machines was too narrow to list the cents.

To Work on Citizenship

Albany, Jan. 16 (AP) — A five-member committee of the State Teachers' Association will try to strengthen citizenship education in the public schools. Fred Ambellian, superintendent of schools in Gloversville, yesterday was named head of the Committee on the Advancement of Constitutional Government and American Citizenship. Others named were: John Steinberg of Garden City, a past president of the New York State Social Studies Council; Miss Koretta Klee of Ithaca; Miss Isabel Howlett of Clinton and Paul Wamsley of Buffalo, national chairman of Know Your America Week.

Holstein Club Is Sixth in State At Annual Parley

The USO Holstein Club ranked sixth in the state at the annual convention of the New York Holstein Association held this week in Binghamton. The USO Club covers Ulster, Sullivan and Orange counties.

Philip Davis of Kerhonkson, delegate to the convention, stated this morning that this is the third year the club has ranked in the top eight in the state.

The area club rated highest on its showing activities. Other activities on which the score was based are membership, herd improvement, publicity, junior activities and meetings.

Area Delegates

Delegates in addition to Davis were Nicholas Kolk of Goshen and John Gerow of Washingtonville, who is state director for the club. Davis served as alternate for Daniel Barnhart of Stone Ridge, club president.

Miss Hilda Sauer, Kyserike, last year's National Reserve 4-H Champion girl, also attended the convention, which was held Jan. 12 and 13 at the Hotel Arlington.

Davis reported the USO Club outrated the large Eastern New York Holstein Club that covers the eastern side of the Hudson from Columbia county through Long Island.

Officers of the area club, in addition to President Barnhart, are John Winter of Winterton, vice president; Lloyd Peavey, Warwick, secretary-treasurer.

New Directors Named

New directors elected at the club's annual meeting are Paul Lein, Wallkill; Thomas Graney, Montgomery; Alan Detch, Bullville, and Sam Phelps, Walden. Other members of the board are Philip Davis, Kerhonkson; Daniel Barnhart, Stone Ridge; Harry Turner, Hurleyville; John Thorn, Thompson Ridge; Nicholas Kolk, Goshen; Leonard Baird, Chester, and John Winter, Winterton.

The club's first meeting of the new year will be the annual 4-H meeting at the Pine Bush Grange Hall on Jan. 29. The 4-H dairy members will be entertained at the meeting and recognition will be given them for their accomplishments during the past year.

Someone who is called a vagabond today might be a wanderer with no fixed home. The word started as the name for actors who wandered throughout England putting on performances. Prior to the time of Shakespeare there were few established theatres and actors would put on performances wherever they could find an audience. The word is from the Latin "vagari" to wander.

Dutchess Killer Dies in Chair

Ossining, Jan. 16 (AP)—Joseph L. Paonessa, convicted slayer of a 14-year-old schoolboy, died in Sing Sing's electric chair last night in frightened silence.

Paonessa, 41, who still maintained throughout his last day of life that the crime was masterminded by an evil companion later adjudged insane, approached the chair with fear graven on his face.

Paonessa's mumbled prayers were his only utterances as he walked to the chair accompanied by the prison's Catholic chaplain, the Rev. Thomas J. Donovan.

Formerly an auto mechanic in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Paonessa was convicted in June, 1951, of slaying Robert Leonard.

He was charged with luring the boy into a secluded shack 15 miles north of Poughkeepsie and shooting him.

Paonessa said in his defense that he was compelled to kill the boy by Alfred K. Von Wolfersdorf, whom he described as his master in a two-man secret society.

The crime was committed, Paonessa said, while Von Wolfersdorf held a gun at his back saying, "shoot the boy or I'll kill you."

Von Wolfersdorf was a co-defendant in the case but was adjudged insane and committed to Matteawan State Hospital for the criminal insane.

To Take on Permanency

Tokyo, Jan. 16 (AP)—The Chinese Communist regime announced today it will drop its revolutionary swaddling clothes this year and take on the full garments of a permanent centralized government. Peiping radio said the powerful Central Council, headed by Chairman Mao Tze-tung had decided after three years of revolutionary rule to convene an all-China people's congress. It will adopt a new constitution, ratify a five-year plan and elect a Russian-style central governing body.

Two Persons Freed From Prison Life

Albany, Jan. 16 (AP) — Prison gates are open for a robber suffering from an incurable disease and for a Japanese house servant who wrote a cook book while under life sentence for murder.

Gov. Dewey yesterday freed Ferdinand Dacunto, 40, who has served almost half of a 40-year term for robbery, and Gentaro Akiyama, 60, imprisoned nearly 21 years ago for stabbing his employer to death.

The governor said Dacunto was suffering from multiple sclerosis and could receive better treatment for the incurable nervous disease outside of prison.

Akiyama was freed for deportation to his native Japan, Dewey said.

Akiyama was in Attica prison. Dacunto was in Sing Sing.

Dacunto was sentenced June 6, 1934, after conviction on a first-degree robbery charge in New York county. He would have been eligible for parole in October, 1961.

Sentenced in 1932

Akiyama was sentenced to death March 3, 1932, but the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, then governor, commuted the sentence Dec. 9, 1932. Akiyama was convicted in Dutchess county of stabbing his employer, J. William Schatz, during a struggle after Akiyama allegedly had attacked a man and woman as they slept.

Dewey said that if Akiyama should re-enter the United States, he would go back to prison for life.

Akiyama's cook book reportedly had wide circulation in his homeland. He has two children in Japan.

Dewey said Dacunto's brother and sister had expressed willingness to take care of him and pay for his treatment.

'Little Mo,' Partner Cop Australian Championship

First U. S. Title In Three Years

Melbourne, Australia, Jan. 16 (AP) — Little Maureen Connolly of San Diego, Calif., the U. S. and Wimbledon champion, added to her tennis conquests today. She and her partner, Julie Sampson of San Marino, Calif. won the Australian Women's Doubles championship.

The American girls brought the title back to the U. S. after a three-year interval by beating Mary Hawton and Beryl Penrose of Australia, 6-4, 6-2.

Ken Rosewall, who upset Vic Seixas of Philadelphia in the semi-finals of the singles yesterday, teamed with Lewis Hoad to win the men's double title. They lost the first set but came back to beat their countrymen, Mervyn Rose and Don Candy, 9-11, 6-4, 10-8, 6-4.

Maureen and Julie hit the ball much too hard to give their Australian opponents a chance. In the second set the Australian pair, down 1-5, broke Julie's service, but the American girls broke Miss Penrose's service right back to take the match.

In this last game Maureen showed the crowd of 3,500 some of her ability. She hit two clean winners on returns of service, smashing the ball hard between the two Australians.

Louise Brough and Doris Hart last won the Women's Double title for the U. S. in 1950.

Shortly after her doubles victory Maureen joined Ham Richardson, of Baton Rouge, La., on an outside court to enter the semi-final of the mixed doubles. She and the Louisiana youth beat June Ryan and Clive Wildersen, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3.

End of Two-Platoons To Force Changes

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—The nation's college football coaches —both big and little—still were trying to figure today how they will adapt their material to the new "one platoon" system that will be in effect next fall.

With the outlawing of the two-platoon system by the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Rules Committee two days ago, the coaches agreed they would have to revise their strategy considerably.

But just what they intended to do, even they didn't seem to know. The new rule took them almost completely by surprise, because they took it for granted the two-platoon system was here to stay. When they voted in favor of it by a 4-1 margin not long ago. There seemed little doubt that it was set for a long tenure.

But the committee apparently took more seriously the resolution by the NCAA's 17-man council "strongly urging" the rules committee to do away with the two-platoon system. The resolution was made at the NCCA convention last week and came as a sort of end of the trail move.

Not Aware of Resolution

It was made Saturday and passed by a margin of 45-23. There were 255 voting delegates at the convention and many had left. The council is composed of athletic directors and faculty representatives. Not coaches.

Probably not many of the coaches even were aware of the resolution, but it seems certain that if both coaches and council had voted for the two-platoons, the committee would have left the rule alone.

Another major point made at the convention was that the two-platoon system might not have presented as many injuries as its proponents thought.

The Eastwood Committee on Injuries and Fatalities made this report to the convention:

"Another factor contributing to the football injuries was inadequate provision for warm-up of the players. A technique must be developed to keep players warmed up between the offensive and defensive substitutions which have been greatly increased by the modern platoon system. Contrary to what had long been thought, inadequate warm-up is a more important cause for injuries than is fatigue."

There was no general line of opinion among groups of players and coaches. Some of the big school mentors were bitter at the thought of the new rule while others said it would be a boon to the game.

KBA Officials Map Tournament Plan

Members of the executive board of the Kingston Bowling Association mapped plans for the 16th annual city championships scheduled next month during a meeting this week at the YMCA. Seated (l.r.) Irwin J. Thomas, KBA secretary; Thomas Orr, president; Mannie Colao, Bill Murray, Peter Keresman, founder of the organization and Louis G. Bruhn, past president. Standing in the usual order are Len Freer, Jack Blinder, treasurer; Jake Chichelsky, Mike Mostransky and Ralph Frederick. Charles J. Tiano, tournament manager, was not present for the picture. The five-man events will be rolled Feb. 9-22 at the Central Recs and the doubles and singles Feb. 21 and 22 at the Bowlodrome. Entries close midnight Jan. 31. (Freeman photo)

Marciano Due to Get Order Today to Defend His Crown

Six-Month Defense Favored by Board

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—A joint "review board" of the New York State Athletic Commission and National Boxing Association today is expected to insist Rocky Marciano defend his heavyweight title within the six-months span of his Sept. 23 win over Jersey Joe Walcott.

A return bout contract between Marciano and Walcott, signed before their title fight in Philadelphia, will be presented by John (Ox) Da Grosa of the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission.

Walcott's manager, Felix Bocchicchio, and his legal advisors will be present with Jim Norris, International Boxing Club president, and Al Weill, Marciano's manager.

Norris wants to run a Marciano-Walcott rematch at Chicago Stadium, Friday, April 10. Weill says he would prefer to go in June but has agreed verbally to the April date.

Bocchicchio, originally insistent on a March or April date, has balked at going to Chicago "because it won't do enough money." He wants to take it to Atlantic City, N. J. or Miami, Fla. Failing that, he said last night he would prefer to wait until June rather than agree to a Chicago match.

If the commissions insists on the six-month defense and Bocchicchio still balks, it may come to a showdown on the legality of the return bout contract.

Rocky Gets Neil Award

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—Joseph W. Martin, Jr., speaker of the House of Representatives, praised boxing in general and heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano in particular at the Boxing Writers' Association annual dinner last night.

In presenting Rocky the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque as the man who did the most for boxing in 1952 Martin termed the unbeaten heavyweight champion "a credit to America and symbolic of the American spirit."

The Neil award honors the memory of The Associated Press boxing writer and war correspondent who was killed in 1938 during the war in Spain.

"I think if Ed Neil were here tonight," Martin declared. "He would join us in saying that no man has better earned the Neil trophy than my neighbor from Brocton, Mass. * * * Rocky has earned the award by his conduct both in and out of the ring.

Jersey Joe Walcott, the former champ who lost his title to Rocky last September in Philadelphia, joined in giving Rocky a thunderous ovation at the presentation.

Won't Let Boxing Down

"Boxing has been wonderful to me," Rocky said. "I do not ever intend to let it down in any way."

George Barton, president of the National Boxing Association and veteran sports writer for the Minneapolis Tribune, was honored for "long and meritorious service" to the sport. He received the James J. Walker memorial award from James A. Farley, former postmaster-general and former chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Vince Martinez of Paterson, N. J. received a plaque as the "Rookie of the Year." Pete Mello, co-coach of the U. S. Olympic champion boxing team and Jim Jennings, veteran boxing writer for the New York Daily Mirror, also received awards.

Chuck Davey, of Lansing, Mich. was given the Ring Magazine award for "progress" but was not able to be present.

Rio Grande Cager Adds 51 Points; Total Now 1,072

Columbus, O., Jan. 16 (AP)—Bevo Francis today held the national collegiate basketball record for the most points produced in a single season, 1,072. And he has 18 more games to go.

The Rio Grande College freshman tallied 51 points last night against Bliss College, two less than the whole Bliss team as it went down to a 102-53 defeat.

The 6 foot, 9 inch scoring machine broke the record of 1,051 set by the University of Seattle's Johnny O'Brien in the 1952-53 season.

Francis has averaged more than 50 points in the 21 games Rio Grande has played this year. In the grand total are his 116 points scored against Ashland College of Kentucky, another national record for individual scoring.

Bolt Leads Diego Open

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 16 (AP)—It was up to "Terrible Tommy" Bolt to hold his lead as well as his temper today as play swung into the second round of the $10,000 San Diego Open Golf tournament.

Temperamental Tommy held everything yesterday, including an array of splendid golf shots, as he subdued par 72 by six strokes to lead the field through the first 18 holes.

The 34-year-old ex-Houston, Tex., pro from Maplewood, N. J., was but one of 33 players who embarrassed the 6,600-yard par 36-36—72 course at the San Diego Country Club.

And heading out today the lightnin' kid figured to be hard pressed to stay out in front.

One stroke back was steady putting master Jerry Barber from La Canada, Calif., whose 31-36 for 67 was extremely well fashioned.

And four worthy challengers were tied at 68—Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill.; Jimmy Demaret, now from Kiamesha Lake, N. Y.; Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N. Y., and his neighbor from Harrison, Doug Ford.

Bolt, who in good humored vein swears he has abandoned such things as breaking clubs, carded five birdies and an eagle 3. The latter on the 464 yard eighth hole. His approach dropped five feet from the pin and he holed the putt.

The 69's were Warren McCarthy, La Jolla, Calif.; Mike Homa, Rye, N. Y., and Pete Fleming, St. Andrews, Ill.

Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y., the 1952 winner here, led the 71 group, and his company included National Open Champion Julius Mords of Mid Pines, N. C.

Sports of the Day (IN BRIEF) (By The Associated Press)

Melbourne, Australia—Australia's Ken Rosewell upset Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, 6-3, 2-6, 7-5 and 6-4, in the semi finals of the Australian tennis championships.

New York—Mississippi's football victory over Maryland rated the sports upset of the year in AP poll.

New York—Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano received the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque as the man who did the most for boxing in 1952 and George Barton, NBA president, was honored "for long and meritorious service."

San Diego, Cal.—Howie Clark, ex-Navy Backfield star, was killed when his plane crashed and burned.

Record Catch Recognized

San Bernardino, Calif., Jan. 16 —Mrs. Alice Price of San Bernardino today officially holds the women's world record for large game fish — a 920-pound Pacific black marlin swordfish taken last October off Cabo Blanco, Peru. The International Game Fish Association gave its official recognition to the catch as the largest ever made by a woman on regulation rod, reel and line. The tremendous marlin was boated after a fight of three hours and 10 minutes and measured 14 feet 3 inches in length with a girth of 5 feet 11 inches, the IGFA noted.

Aussie Captures Lead Over Kramer In Straight Sets

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP)—Australia's Frank Sedgman counted victory as well as money today for his change from outstanding amateur to pro tennis player.

He upset Jack Kramer last night in straight sets, 6-3, 7-5 to move into a 4-3 lead in matches won during their current tour, which will be resumed Sunday in Baltimore.

Sedgman had no trouble taking the first set. The second went to 5-all before the Australian could break through Kramer's serve, but he lost only one point in the decisive game on his own serve.

Pancho Segura easily disposed of Ken McGregor, Sedgman's touring partner, 6-2, 6-4 for the seventh straight time. Sedgman and McGregor took the doubles match 6-3, 3-6,, 6-2 to make it two in a row and move into a 4 to 3 lead in the doubles matches.

In their matches here the touring pros played before 10,000 spectators.

Evelyn Gross Fires 572 Triple; M. Clark, M. Dunn Break Marks

Evelyn Gross, veteran keglerette of local tenpin action, highlighted the Friendship League activity this week at the Central Rec drives but it took a couple of lesser known distaff members to add the human interest punch.

The No. 1 surprise came in the person of Marcia Clark, a 125-average keglerette, who fashioned a whopping 239 single and 530 triple to pace the Central Rec Women's League. The 239 was a new high solo mark for the loop and it marked the first 200 for the league leader. The 530 triple also marked her initial 500 series.

Another newsworthy article came out of the Matinee Club Thursday afternoon when Mildred Dunn rapped a sizzling 221 single in her final game setting a new league mark. Elsie Dykes paced the circuit with a 539 blast.

Shoots 209 Game

Getting back to the league leader in the Friendship wheel, Mrs. Gross hammered out scores of 209-188-175 for a hefty 572 series.

One pin off the pace was Jo Smith who fashioned a 571.

Others in the 500 bracket were Marge Jansen with 510; Marge Mellert 208-509; Ada Markle 503 and Phyl Gehringer 212-502.

Johnson Pushes Try For Lightheavy Go

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—Harold Johnson continues his campaign for a title shot at lightheavy champ Archie Moore tonight when he meets Jimmy Slade, 26-year-old New Yorker, in a 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena.

The latest National Boxing Association rankings place Johnson and Joey Maxim in the "logical contenders" division. As Maxim already has a contract for a return with Archie, Johnson must await his turn.

The fight will be carried over network radio (ABC) and television (NBS) starting at 10 p. m. (EST.). It will be held in the ancient St. Nick's because the Garden is occupied by an ice show for the next two weeks.

Johnson and Moore have fought four times, with Moore winning three. All went to a decision.

Johnson's career record for 43 fights is 38-5 with 20 knockout wins and one KO loss.

Slade's record is 15-4-3 with three KO wins and two KO defeats.

Managing Cards Gives Stanky Tremendous Kick

Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 16 (AP)—Eddie Stanky says he gets a "tremendous kick out of managing" the St. Louis Cardinals and is looking forward to the opening of the baseball season.

"After all," the 36-year-old Stanky told Knoxville News-Sentinel sports columnist Tom Siler in an interview at his Mobile, Ala., winter home, "I'd been grooming myself for the job.

Stanky, who piloted the Cards to third place in the National League race last season as a rookie skipper, said he felt all along he could handle the job and added:

"At no time did I not feel equal to the job. Another thing, I never second guessed myself. If the play worked, okay; if not, I would forget it as soon as I could. Sure, I'd get mad. I'll always get mad when I'm losing; I just happen to be made that way."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Give Opponent Lead For Throw-in Play

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

All expert bridge players know that in order to execute a throw-in play it is necessary to put an opponent in the lead at a time when he has no safe cards to get out with. In order to bring about this condition, it is usually necessary for declarer to draw trumps and to do some other spade work.

In today's hand, played in the recent National Mixed Pair Championship, conducted in Florida by the American Contract Bridge League, declarer had to execute her throw-in play at a time when one of the defenders still had a trump. This unusual play was carefully planned and executed by Mrs. R. A. Dunphy, of Pass-A-Grille Beach, Fla.

West opened a low spade, and East won with the ace. East returned a low diamond, South played low, and West's eight forced out dummy's ace. Since entries to dummy were scarce Mrs. Dunphy promptly led the queen of clubs from dummy and let it ride for a finesse.

West won with the king of clubs and returned a diamond, East's jack forcing out declarer's king.

It was now clear to Mrs. Dunphy that West had both of the missing honors in hearts for the take-out double of one club. How could she avoid the loss of two heart tricks?

After some thought, Mrs. Dunphy cashed the king of spades, ruffed her last spade in dummy, took a second round of trumps with the ace, and then exited with the ten of diamonds.

West was forced to win this trick with the queen of diamonds, and then had no safe return lead. If West returned a spade or a diamond, dummy could ruff with its last trump, while South discarded a losing heart. If West tried to return a heart, of course, South could lose only one trick in that suit.

If South had drawn East's last trump, she would have been obliged to draw the last trump from dummy at the same time. Then West could have gotten out safely with either his last spade or his last diamond. South would wind up losing two heart tricks, for a one-trick set instead of making her contract.

Evelyn Gross Fires 572 Triple; M. Clark, M. Dunn Break Marks

Evelyn Gross, veteran keglerette of local tenpin action, highlighted the Friendship League activity this week at the Central Rec drives but it took a couple of lesser known distaff members to add the human interest punch.

The No. 1 surprise came in the person of Marcia Clark, a 125-average keglerette, who fashioned a whopping 239 single and 530 triple to pace the Central Rec Women's League. The 239 was a new high solo mark for the loop and it marked the first 200 for the league leader. The 530 triple also marked her initial 500 series.

Another newsworthy article came out of the Matinee Club Thursday afternoon when Mildred Dunn rapped a sizzling 221 single in her final game setting a new league mark. Elsie Dykes paced the circuit with a 539 blast.

Shoots 209 Game

Getting back to the league leader in the Friendship wheel, Mrs. Gross hammered out scores of 209-188-175 for a hefty 572 series.

One pin off the pace was Jo Smith who fashioned a 571.

Others in the 500 bracket were Marge Jansen with 510; Marge Mellert 208-509; Ada Markle 503 and Phyl Gehringer 212-502.

Near-misses included L. Craig with 494; Eleanor Singer 492; Miriam Posner 488; Dot Rawding 486; Fran Kelder 481 and Fannie Battaglino 480.

Team results:

Trailing Elsie Dykes as leader in the Matinee Club were Eleanor Singer with a pair of 196 games for 508; Mildred Dunn 221-499; M. McCardle 460; Frank Kelder 452; Miriam Posner 449.

Team results:

Also of note were Jessie Burnett 487; Mary Mills 205-486; Janet Hines 472; Eleanor Dumenigo 466; Pat Pearson 463; R. Boice 458 and Kay Brodhead 452.

Seton Hall Cops 17th Court Win

South Orange, N. J., Jan. 16 (AP)—Seton Hall clung to its status as the nation's only unbeaten major college basketball team today after a nerve-wracking 82-74 victory over Dayton last night.

The Pirates, with 17 wins on the season, were again paced by 6-11 Walt Dukes with 39 points.

Seton Hall, second-ranked nationally in the A.P. Poll, for the second night in a row looked like it might blow a big lead and then recovered to win going away. When they knocked Fordham out of the unbeaten class Wednesday their play fell in the same pattern.

Bowlers to Aid March of Dimes

Thomas Orr, president of the Kingston Bowling Association, announced today that the week of Jan. 18-25 will be set aside as March of Dimes Week during bowling matches conducted throughout the Kingston Bowling Association.

Members of the Kingston Women's Bowling Association will make collections, Elizabeth Schoonmaker, KWBA president, said.

Johnson Pushes Try For Lightheavy Go

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—Harold Johnson continues his campaign for a title shot at lightheavy champ Archie Moore tonight when he meets Jimmy Slade, 26-year-old New Yorker, in a 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena.

The latest National Boxing Association rankings place Johnson and Joey Maxim in the "logical contenders" division. As Maxim already has a contract for a return with Archie, Johnson must await his turn.

The fight will be carried over network radio (ABC) and television (NBS) starting at 10 p. m. (EST.). It will be held in the ancient St. Nick's because the Garden is occupied by an ice show for the next two weeks.

Johnson and Moore have fought four times, with Moore winning three. All went to a decision.

Johnson's career record for 43 fights is 38-5 with 20 knockout wins and one KO loss.

Slade's record is 15-4-3 with three KO wins and two KO defeats.

Managing Cards Gives Stanky Tremendous Kick

Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 16 (AP)—Eddie Stanky says he gets a "tremendous kick out of managing" the St. Louis Cardinals and is looking forward to the opening of the baseball season.

"After all," the 36-year-old Stanky told Knoxville News-Sentinel sports columnist Tom Siler in an interview at his Mobile, Ala., winter home, "I'd been grooming myself for the job.

Stanky, who piloted the Cards to third place in the National League race last season as a rookie skipper, said he felt all along he could handle the job and added:

"At no time did I not feel equal to the job. Another thing, I never second guessed myself. If the play worked, okay; if not, I would forget it as soon as I could. Sure, I'd get mad. I'll always get mad when I'm losing; I just happen to be made that way."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Give Opponent Lead For Throw-in Play

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

All expert bridge players know that in order to execute a throw-in play it is necessary to put an opponent in the lead at a time when he has no safe cards to get out with. In order to bring about this condition, it is usually necessary for declarer to draw trumps and to do some other spade work.

In today's hand, played in the recent National Mixed Pair Championship, conducted in Florida by the American Contract Bridge League, declarer had to execute her throw-in play at a time when one of the defenders still had a trump. This unusual play was carefully planned and executed by Mrs. R. A. Dunphy, of Pass-A-Grille Beach, Fla.

West opened a low spade, and East won with the ace. East returned a low diamond. South played low, and West's eight forced out dummy's ace. Since entries to dummy were scarce Mrs. Dunphy promptly led the queen of clubs from dummy and let it ride for a finesse.

West won with the king of clubs and returned a diamond. East's jack forcing out declarer's king.

It was now clear to Mrs. Dunphy that West had both of the missing honors in hearts for the take-out double of one club. How could she avoid the loss of two heart tricks?

After some thought, Mrs. Dunphy cashed the king of spades, ruffed her last spade in dummy, took a second round of trumps with the ace, and then exited with the ten of diamonds.

West was forced to win this trick with the queen of diamonds, and then had no safe return lead. If West returned a spade or a diamond, dummy could ruff with its last trump, while South discarded a losing heart. If West tried to return a heart, of course, South could lose only one trick in that suit.

If South had drawn East's last trump, she would have been obliged to draw the last trump from dummy at the same time. Then West could have gotten out safely with either his last spade or his last diamond. South would wind up losing two heart tricks, for a one-trick set instead of making her contract.

New York Students Will Sing America

New York, Jan. 16 (AP) — The academic day for New York city public school students henceforth will be started with the singing of the reverential fourth stanza of "America."

Yesterday's order by the New York city Board of Education was designed to strike a compromise in the 14-month-old controversy set off by the New York State Board of Regents in urging that classes be opened with prayer.

The suggestion by the Board of Regents thus far has been adopted by only 300 of the state's 3,000 school districts.

Fear had been expressed by many educators that formal prayer in schools might be regarded as contrary to the tradition of separation of church and state.

The city board's action, which ended a conflict between board members and community leaders, authorizes the singing of the fourth stanza of "America" following the pledge to the flag.

The fourth stanza:

"Our father's God, to Thee
Author of liberty,
To Thee we sing:
Long may our land be bright
With freedom's holy light;
Protect us by thy might,
Great God, our king."

Continued in Supreme Court today was the trial of three negligence actions, Alfred Rose vs. Raymond Davis and Walter Davenport Sons; Walter Davenport Sons against Alfred Rose and Reginald L. Howland vs. Alfred Rose and Walter Davenport Sons. Cook & Cook appear for Alfred Rose, Hugh R. Elwyn for Walter Davenport Sons and Cashin & Ewig for defendant Walter Davis. Arthur A. Davis, Jr., appears for Reginald L. Howland. Medical testimony on behalf of plaintiff had not been concluded when court recessed Thursday afternoon.

Bills Offered in Legislature

Albany, Jan. 16 (AP)—A Republican assemblyman wants the state's liquor laws rewritten to plug any loopholes that might invite political tampering.

Anthony Savarese Jr., of Queens says the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law is "a patchwork of repealers and amendments."

Savarese said last night he would introduce a resolution in the Legislature Tuesday calling for a joint Senate and Assembly commission to study and recodify the ABC law. He said it had not been "ccomprehensively surveyed" since it was enacted in 1834.

The law, Savarese said, should be rewritten to eliminate what he called "arbitrary regulations which encourage, rather than discourage, political influence to seep into administration of the present law."

Resolution Bogs Down

A similar resolution by Savarese bogged down in the Ways and Means Committee last year.

"Proper and equitable administration is not entirely possible under the present law," the GOP lawmaker said. "For instance the power of the courts to review the decisions and findings of the ABC Board is restricted and circumscribed."

The flood of bills tapered off sharply as the Legislature approached the "inauguration doldrums." Because of President-elect Eisenhower's inauguration next week, the Assembly will take the week off and the Senate will mark time, although it has scheduled regular meetings.

Other Bills

In yesterday's trickle were bills that would:

Reduce from 20 to 15 weeks the minimum employment required in 52-week period for a claimant to qualify for unemployment insurance benefits.

Exempt from jury duty until Sept. 1, 1955, teachers in public day schools, colleges or universities, provided they have no other occupation.

Continue until March 31, 1954, the temporary commission to assist in the federal flood-control program in the state.

Championships Canceled

Newburgh, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Middle Atlantic Speed Skating Championships scheduled for tomorrow and Sunday have been postponed because of warm weather. The new dates, announced today, are Feb. 7-8.

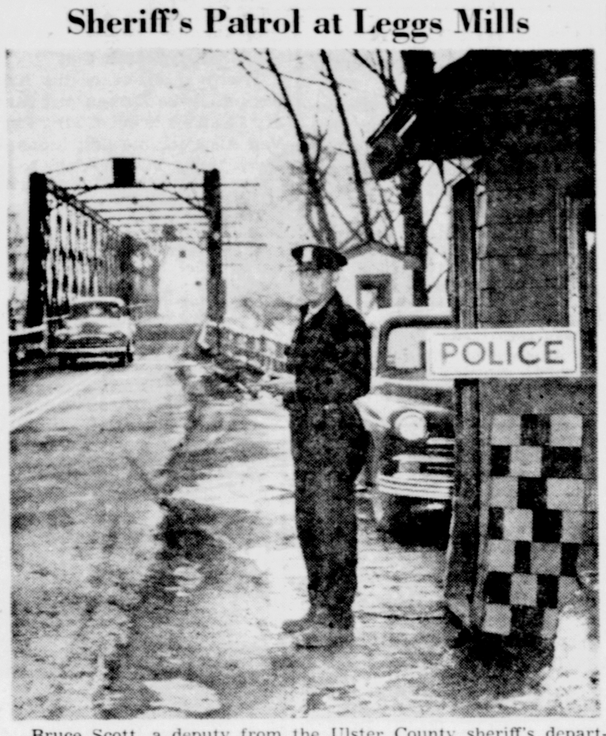
It was so foggy that four geese got lost when they took off for a little air spin from their Bronx Zoo home late yesterday. They eventually landed on an apartment house a mile away. The apartment superintendent took them in, fed them and returned them to the zoo.

Sheriff's Patrol at Leggs Mills



Bruce Scott, a deputy from the Ulster County sheriff's department, controls traffic at the Leggs Mills bridge, near Lake Katrine, leading to the new state thruway. Three other deputies make up the staff of guards doing a 24-hour patrol, Thomas Mayone, Ray Winne and Nick Kurstine. Stop and go signals on the bridge are controlled by the deputies, limiting passage to one-way traffic. (Freeman photo)

Bills Offered in Legislature

Albany, Jan. 16 (AP)—A Republican assemblyman wants the state's liquor laws rewritten to plug any loopholes that might invite political tampering.

Anthony Savarese Jr., of Queens says the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law is "a patchwork of repealers and amendments."

Savarese said last night he would introduce a resolution in the Legislature Tuesday calling for a joint Senate and Assembly commission to study and recodify the ABC law. He said it had not been 'ccomprehensively surveyed" since it was enacted in 1834.

The law, Savarese said, should be rewritten to eliminate what he called "arbitrary regulations which encourage, rather than discourage, political influence to seep into administration of the present law."

Resolution Bogs Down

A similar resolution by Savarese bogged down in the Ways and Means Committee last year.

"Proper and equitable administration is not entirely possible under the present law," the GOP lawmaker said. "For instance the power of the courts to review the decisions and findings of the ABC Board is restricted and circumscribed."

The flood of bills tapered off sharply as the Legislature approached the "inauguration doldrums." Because of President-elect Eisenhower's inauguration next week, the Assembly will take the week off and the Senate will mark time, although it has scheduled regular meetings.

Other Bills

In yesterday's trickle were bills that would:

Reduce from 20 to 15 weeks the minimum employment required in 52-week period for a claimant to qualify for unemployment insurance benefits.

Exempt from jury duty until Sept. 1, 1955, teachers in public day schools, colleges or universities, provided they have no other occupation.

Continue until March 31, 1954, the temporary commission to assist in the federal flood-control program in the state.

Championships Canceled

Newburgh, Jan. 15 (AP)—The Middle Atlantic Speed Skating Championships scheduled for tomorrow and Sunday have been postponed because of warm weather. The new dates, announced today, are Feb. 7-8.

Office to Be Open

The office of the Kingston water department, city hall, will remain open until noon Saturday for the paying of water rents now due.

Ughetta Denies Defense Motion in Trial at Hudson

Hudson, Jan. 16 (AP)—Justice Henry L. Ughetta, who yesterday threw out 16 bribery counts against William F. Egan, today denied a defense motion for dismissal of four perjury counts.

The 41-year-old Egan, a suspended Hudson police sergeant, is on trial on an indictment returned by the extraordinary grand jury investigating vice in Columbia county.

The perjury counts accuse him of falsely denying that he ever was in houses of prostitution except on business and that he took bribes from brothel operators.

Ughetta said, regarding the perjury charge, that there appeared to be evidence sufficient to be submitted to the trial jury.

Yesterday, in dismissing the bribery counts, Ughetta said the testimony of two brothel operators that Egan had accepted bribes waas insufficient and uncorroborated. The judge did not elaborate on today's decision regarding the perjury counts.

Count Dismissed

Ughetta dismissed one of the original five perjury counts yesterday, on motion of the prosecution.

The defense rested today after Egan told the court he had not taken any money from the two women and never had been in their houses except on official business.

Egan testified that he had arrested several prostitutes in "the block."

Regarding a state trooper's testimony that he had seen Egan in a house of prostitution when state police raided the place in 1950, Egan said the troopers were there when he arrived.

Mrs. Vera Faith had testified that she gave Egan $100 a week for several years after World War 2. Miss Carol Desmond said Egan never had asked her for money but that she had given him some at various times.

Under cross examination, Mrs. Faith said she had told the state crime commission at a hearing in December, 1951, that she had not paid Egan any money and that he never had been in her house except on official business.

Miss Desmond also admitted that she told the crime commission that she never had given Egan money.

Car Kills Deer

An automobile driven by James Lee of Napanoch struck and killed a deer on Route 55A about five miles west of Napanoch at 5:55 p. m. Thursday, state police of the Ellenville station reported. The front end of the vehicle was damaged, troopers said, but Lee was not reported hurt.

Directors Chosen By Clinton Hotel, Year Big Success

At the annual meeting Thursday evening of the Governor Clinton Hotel Corporation, directors were elected and reports read revealing that the past year was one of the best in the recent history of the local hotel at 15 Albany avenue.

State Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city, president of the corporation, was re-elected with other directors as follows: Peter A. Black, W. A. Carl, A. J. Burns, N. J. Fowler, Stuart E. Hockenbury, R. R. Gross, Stanley J. Mathews and T. A. Dandrew.

Copeland Gates and M. Edgar Powley were re-named inspectors of election.

Of the 3,900 outstanding shares of voting stock a total of 2612 shares were represented at the meeting, one of the best attended annual sessions of the corporation in recent years. Senator Wicks presided.

Had Big Year

Reports were given by W. A. Carl, treasurer; R. R. Gross, manager; and T. A. Dandrew, traveling manager. President Wicks also gave a brief report for the directors in which he praised the board and the manager of the hotel for their services during the past year, one of the best in the recent history of the hotel.

R. R. Gross, manager, reported more local activities being carried on at the hotel and gave a report on the year's business. During the past year room occupancy declined slightly from a year ago but revenues were up. During the past year 27 rooms were redecorated, seven were recarpeted and 21 rooms were completely refurnished in keeping with the policy of renewing a section of rooms each year.

Only $40,000 Mortgage Left

The financial condition of the corporation improved during the past year and there now remains but $40,000 of the first mortgage bonds held by the Metropolitan Insurance Company. It was predicted that the remaining second mortgage bonds, which are widely held by local people, will be retired when due in 1955.

In a report on the hotel, Traveling Manager Dandrew stated that the Governor Clinton Hotel was in excellent physical condition and he predicted that when the New York Thruway is completed considerable traffic from the west which now stops in, Albany would continue on to Kingston for an overnight stop en route to New York and the south.

Surplus Is $56,000

The financial report showed a balance of over $56,000 in the surplus account at the close of business on December 31, 1952. The gross earnings of the hotel during the past year was close to the half million mark and after deducting operating costs there was a net profit, before tax deductions, of over $28,000.

Officers will be elected at a directors' meeting later.

In a report on the hotel, Traveling Manager Dandrew stated that the Governor Clinton Hotel was in excellent physical condition and he predicted that when the New York Thruway is completed considerable traffic from the west which now stops in, Albany would continue on to Kingston for an overnight stop en route to New York and the south.

Surplus Is $56,000

The financial report showed a balance of over $56,000 in the surplus account at the close of business on December 31, 1952. The gross earnings of the hotel during the past year was close to the half million mark and after deducting operating costs there was a net profit, before tax deductions, of over $28,000.

Officers will be elected at a directors' meeting later.

Polio Hits Children Of John A. Roosevelt

New York, Jan. 16 (AP)—Infantile paralysis again has struck the family of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who himself was a polio sufferer.

It was disclosed yesterday that two of his grandchildren—Haven, 12, and Nina, 10, children of John A. Roosevelt — were stricken with mild cases last summer. They now have recovered.

Another of the late president's grandchildren, Curtis Roosevelt, 22, suffered a light polio attack in 1949.

Home Bureau

Kripplebush Unit

Twelve members of the Kripplebush Home Bureau met January 14 at the home of Mrs. Floyd Van Aken for the first lesson on Quick Meals. Two delicious baked dishes were prepared and served at refreshment time.

The second lesson on meals will be held February 11 at 1 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Claude Christiana under supervision of Mrs. Van Aken.

According to the secretary's report five ladies have been taught how to make the toothbrush rug. Mrs. Ann Greenburg instructed seven ladies in the making of Christmas decorations.

For the December meeting, 17 ladies gathered at the home of Mrs. Donald Christiana for a Christmas party consisting of a covered dish luncheon, games, songs and the exchange of gifts.
